BATTLE TO OUST WEAKER SISTER WILL GO MERRILY ON

CLUBS DECIDE TO FIGHT EAU CLAIRE

PRESIDENT MOLL GIVES RESULT OF THE MAIL VOTE

ONLY LA CROSSE FAVORABLE

With the Possible Exception of Wausau Which Failed to Vote; Fight Will be Continued

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—The majority of the managers of teams in the state league expressed their opinion as being in favor of fighting the injunction suit.

President Moll will proceed at once to have the injunction dissolved.

If successful Rockford comes in. He will plead for a change of venue to some other court in the district.

The fight to oust Eau Claire from the Wisconsin-Illinois league is to continue.

President Moll announces that in the mail vote taken upon the proposition during the past week all the clubs, excepting La Crosse, and possibly Wausau which has not been heard from, voted against Eau Claire. The fight against Eau Claire's injunction suit will now be taken up in earnest and an effort will be made to have a hearing at once. The success of this is problematical.

There is also a probability that the whole affair will be taken before the national commission, the highest court of baseball. This is favored by Freeport, but might not have much effect upon the situation for the reason that the commission's decision would have no influence with the injunctive proceedings and this has to be disposed of before any decision can be reached in the case.

Moll's Letter
Following is the letter received from Moll by President Elliott, a copy of which was sent to all league presidents:

"In reply to my letter sent out from Minneapolis on February 2nd,

EVANS AND MORRIS TO BE REAPPOINTED NORMAL AND U. W. REGENTS AT ONCE

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—Although official announcement has not been made, the appointment of members of the State Board of University regents and the State Board of Normal regents has been made by Governor Davidson, and will be published in full Monday.

It is stated officially at the capitol that Dr. Ed Evans, of La Crosse, has been reappointed a university regent for a term of three years, and that Senator Thomas Morris, of that city, has been reappointed a normal regent for a period of five years.

RICH WOMAN FREEZES TO SAVE FUEL COST

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 8.—Miss Belle Stri, a wealthy but penniless resident of Wheatland township, was found frozen to death at her home this morning by her sister, Mrs. Ann Anderson, also a resident of Wheatland. She probably has been dead for several days. Deceased is estimated to be worth nearly $125,000, but was too "close" to buy fuel.

BANKRUPTCY CASE IS ADJUDICATED

DEMOCRATS CHEER OLD PRINCIPALS

SIXTEEN DELEGATES ELECTED TO STATE DEM. CONVENTION

BENTLEY TEMPORARY HEAD

Enthusiasm Prevails when the Democrats of the County Get Together Today to Enter the Game

Enthusiastic gathering of democrats in council convention at the city hall this afternoon, indicated William Jennings Bryan is the idol of La Crosse county democrats and the sixteen delegates elected to the state convention in Milwaukee Feb. 13, go there imbued with the old principles they fought for and advocated ten years ago.

Following the election of delegates there were enthusiastic addresses by prominent democrats, including O. R. Skaar.

Democratic County Chairman John F. Doherty called the convention to order at 1:30 in the small council chamber. County Secretary Jos. M. Sieger assisted temporarily. County Chairman Doherty made a short, but enthusiastic address in which he said all had an equal vote at the meeting, and that he wished all to take active part.

It was moved that A. A. Bentley occupy the chair at the convention. The motion was unanimously passed by acclamation, and Mr. Bentley took the chair amid applause.

Chairman Bentley made an address to the convention in which he said in part:

"This is the first move in a great fight in a campaign which is to be unparalleled and will be greater than many anticipate. Every democrat should be enthusiastic in his work during the campaign of 1908.

"There is reason for every democrat to be active, as we stand upon the same great principles, the fundamental principles of truth, which were tested during the past 10 years.

"Some have proved during that time to be of the best benefit to the common people and their feeling is justified.

"The great principle is equal rights to all, and if we preach that doctrine to all citizens we will not have to legislate prosperity to bring about that lasting and equitable feeling.

"Gentlemen, I will serve you fairly and as honestly as I can."

E. J. Kneen, Bangor, Secretary. Ballots were taken. John Burns and Clinton W. Hunt acting as tellers, and Jos. Sieger received 16 votes and E. J. Kneen of Bangor 17 votes for the position of secretary. Before the vote was taken it was moved that the winner set up the cigars. Everybody smoked on Mr. Kneen.

The Delegates.
Following delegates were elected to attend the state convention: John F. Doherty, La Crosse; John C. Burns, La Crosse; E. J. Kneen, Bangor; Paul W. Mahoney, La Crosse; Will J. Fries, La Crosse; William F. Wolfe, La Crosse; C. W. Hunt, La Crosse; Mr. L. C. Sanders, West Salem; Thomas Barney, La Crosse; C. L. Hood, La Crosse; Hans Jacobs, Shelby; J. M. Sieger, La Crosse; P. L. Jolliette, La Crosse; Carl Michel and A. A. Bentley, La Crosse.

There was a friendly contest on the selection of Hood, Sieger and Jacobs.

On motion of O. R. Skaar it was decided to allow each delegate to appoint his own alternate.

The delegates were instructed to vote for John A. Aylward for delegate at large.

On motion of Doherty it was decided to organize 1,000 county democrats who will work in the campaign and contribute a dollar toward a fund.

FORTIFICATIONS FOR MANILA BAY—TAFT

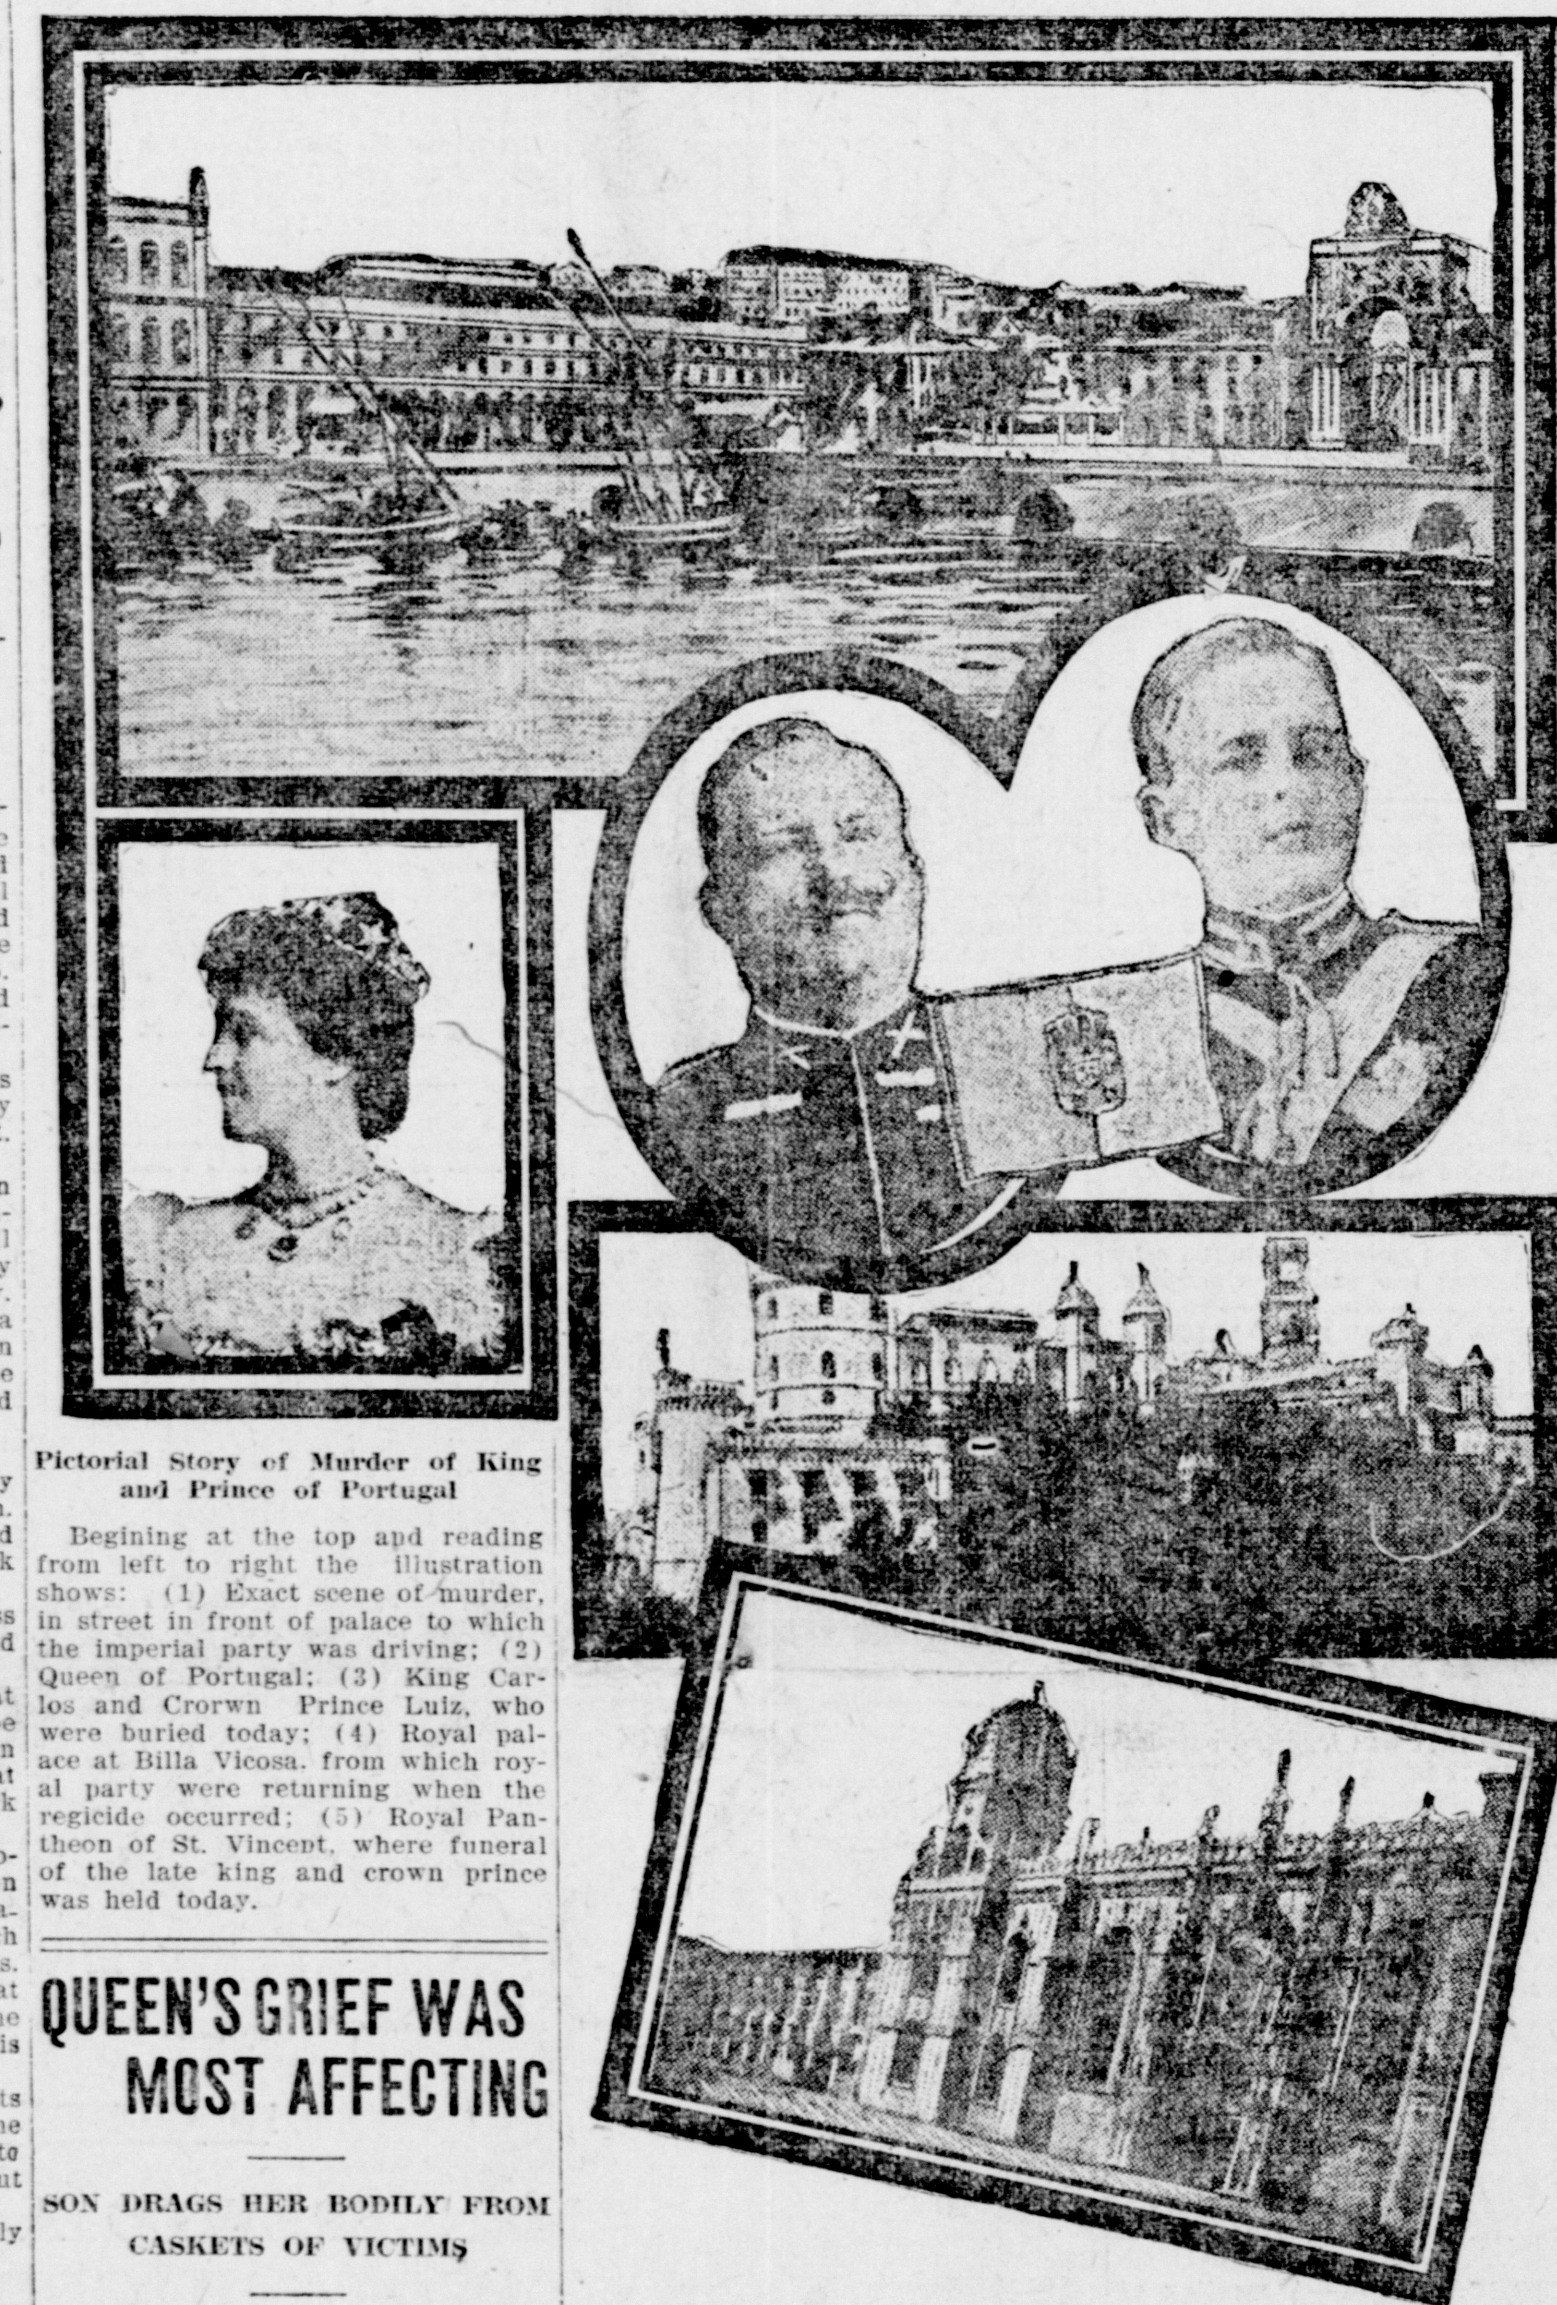

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Before leaving the capital this afternoon for Kansas City, where he will deliver an address Monday night, Secretary Taft approved a recommendation of the joint army and navy board that Manila Bay be selected as the site for the principal fortifications for the Philippines.

NAME IDLE CARS 'TEDDY BEARS'

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Railroad officials throughout the country in doubtful compliment of President Roosevelt have named a certain type of freight car the "Teddy bear" car. Heretofore this car has borne the less euphonious name of "empties."

The inference cast is that the cars owe their relegation to the sidetrack to the "Roosevelt policies."

Quiet and Grief Alone Mark Burial of Portugal's Royal Dead

LISBON, Feb. 8.—The funeral services of the king and crown prince will be held at St. Vincent's cathedral today with all the imposing ceremony of the Catholic church. Weeping throngs lined the street through which the cortege passed. Double rows of guards were on duty, but there were no signs of a disturbance. King Manuel and the widow remained away in accordance with the Portuguese custom which makes it at least unusual for the wives and children to attend the funerals of husbands or fathers. The bodies lay in state for three days before the burial.

A Sad Yesterday.
But while absent from the funeral today, two queens and a king, their faces streaming with tears, looked after, when his body had been transferred to its coffin yesterday. The queen mother, Maria Pia, giving way to sorrow, kissed the hands of her dead son again and again, while her body shook with sobs. So bitter was her grief and so loath was she to leave her dead, that friends were compelled to remove her forcibly from the bier.

When Queen Amelie and King Manuel were admitted to the mortuary chamber they knelt in prayer, their voices choked with emotion.

Transfer to Royal Chapel.
It was midnight when the body, in its coffin, was transported to the Royal chapel. All doctors and high officials of the palace were in attendance. The head priest attached to the palace led the procession, carrying in his hands the palace cross. He was followed by the major domo and courtiers and other officials.

Queen's Grief Violent.
The scene was heartrending as the coffin was sealed ready for removal from the palace. The queen's grief was frantic. She fell on her knees.

JAMES HOWARD IS GIVEN NEW TRIAL

JUDGE FRUIT ANNOUNCES HIS DECISION TODAY

ERROR IN COURT'S CHARGE

Attorney Hartwell Complained That Prior Conviction Should Have Been Cited and is Upheld

Judge Fruit, circuit court, this morning granted a new trial to James Howard, found guilty of the theft of an overcoat from a school house in the town of Farmington.

In Attorney F. H. Hartwell's appeal for a new trial his principal argument was that the court erred in citing Howard's prior conviction.

In this he was upheld by the court.

The trial will probably come up in the May term.

Howard was originally suspected of having robbed the postoffice and general store of Mindoro.

Case Up Monday
Judge Fruit this morning dismissed the circuit court jury until Monday morning at 9 o'clock at which time the case of Mrs. Mary Paddock, vs the city of La Crosse and Hiram Goddard will come to trial.

Mrs. Paddock alleges permanent injuries from a fall upon a sidewalk at 1643 Wood street, property owned by Goddard.

Flees From One With Other and Reaches Chicago Only to Land in Jail

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Oscar Triggs and Prof. Herron have been out-Triggsed and out-Herroned—and by a woman.

The university of Chicago professor and the clerical sociologist sent a shiver through the social firmament when they advanced their "soul affinity" ideas, but Mrs. Grace Franks of Sault Ste. Marie goes them one better. She has found two affinities.

"This talk about affinities is right," said Mrs. Franks, "but it is ridiculous to talk about having only one 'soul mate.' I've had two, but you must not let your affinities mix."

Because Mrs. Franks' affinities came together, the police of the Desplanned street station became interested.

Mrs. Franks is a prisoner in the Harrison street police station annex. Todd Naylor, soulmate No. 2, is a patient in the county jail hospital, and Percy McDonald, soulmate No. 1, is confined in the Maxwell street police station.

MEYER TELLS HOW STATE UTILITIES DISCRIMINATE

STATE COMMISSION BREAKS SILENCE ON NEW UTILITY LAW

SPEECH IS FIRST OF KIND

Commissioner Tells How One Lighting Company Has a Rate for Each Customer

Prof. Meyer prefaced his speech with the announcement that within a few days every utility company in the state will be asked to adopt a uniform system of accounting to be suggested by the state commission. In La Crosse this will affect the La Crosse Gas and Electric company, City Street Railway company, Onalaska Railway company, La Crosse Waterpower company, La Crosse Telephone company and La Crosse Interurban telephone company.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—After viewing the whole history of the free pass, the rebate and discrimination in railroad business, Prof. B. H. Meyer, chairman of the railroad rate commission, declared in an address here last evening, "I doubt whether railroad discriminations in the full height of their bloom, twenty years ago, ever equalled the discriminations now existing in the utilities in their personal and social injustice."

This is the first time that a member of the commission has given a public address on the workings of the public utility law, passed at the last session of the legislature. The work of the regulation of railroads has been described many times. The address was given before the local chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Facts to Prove Statements.

Mr. Meyer did not talk in platitudes. He proved his statements by facts. He showed in one city a restaurant was charged a rate of $9 for 11 lights; a saloon had 12 lights for the same price and another saloon and hotel with 79 lights also paid $9. The same illustrations were given in the gas business. In some cases the officers of the company paid little or nothing for the electric or gas service which they received.

RICH LONDONER, MAD FROM GRIP, KILLS SELF AND 3 OTHERS

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Frederick Holmes, a millionaire, his wife, daughter and two women servants, were found today dead of bullet wounds. Holmes' corpse was found first in a wood near his up-river mansion at Henley. The women had been shot through the head in the house, apparently as they slept. A full investigation has convinced Scotland Yard tonight that Holmes killed the women and suicided. It is believed he was insane after an attack of grip.

COURT CONSIDERS GILBERTSON CASE

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—Before Federal Judge Sanborn last evening arguments were heard on the motion of Bambrow & White, attorneys representing Chicago creditors, to have Louis Gilbertson of La Crosse committed for contempt for having failed to pay over certain moneys alleged to have been in his possession. E. C. Higbee appeared for Gilbertson and argued that while this might have been done under the original application when Gilbertson actually had money, as he has none now the order should be refused.

The court has the matter under advisement.

BIG PAINT COMPANY PUSHED TO THE WALL

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Federal Judge Betha today appointed W. C. Niblack, Edwin C. Day and William Ziball as receivers for the Heath & Milligan Paint company, a million dollar corporation, and the oldest of the big paint companies in the country, on application of the Standard Varnish company, the First National Bank and the Corn Exchange Bank for claims aggregating $20,000.

GRAEBNER BACK IN MAYORALTY FIGHT

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 8.—The political sensation of the day in this city is the announcement that City Treasurer W. H. Graebner has "withdrawn his withdrawal" from the race for the democratic mayoralty nomination, and that he will oppose Dave Rose in the primaries.

TAFT TO INVADE WISCONSIN, SAYS STATE JOURNAL

MADISON PAPER DELARES ORGANIZATION IS PERFECTED

WOULD CHECK LA FOLLETTE

Washington Advises Indicate Taft Men Will Try to Head off Senator's Growing Boom

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—The State Journal tonight says: "Wisconsin Taft supporters, it is expected, will very soon announce their plans for securing Taft delegates from this state. Delegates at large will be named and a contest will be carried on in every district; it is confidently expected that half of the Wisconsin delegation to the national republican convention will be Taft men. The circulation of petitions to nominate delegates will be made early in the week. Campaign headquarters will be in Milwaukee."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—The home of the Taft invasion of Wisconsin cannot be located here, the impression being given out that it is inspired purely by state opposition to Senator La Follette. The growing strength of the senator, however, is known to be worrying the Taft forces, and many political seers believe that if the Taft move is actually made in Wisconsin, it will be directed by the Taft managers in the hope of discrediting "Little Bob" by depriving him of a solid delegation at home. The corporation stripe of the Wisconsin men behind the move is said to have made the Taft people believe it was not to be openly identified with it.

BURNS HOUSE AND INMATES TO "GET EVEN" FOR QUARREL

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb., Feb. 8.—Merrett Anderson and Edward Streather were incarcerated early today in the fire which destroyed the Streather boarding house. Twenty sleepers escaped, many sliding down a telephone pole. Mrs. Dolly Harnett, one of the injured, accuses a near relative of setting the house afire to be revenged on her for a recent quarrel.

YOUNG HARGIS IS DUMB BEFORE COURT

JACKSON, Ky., Feb. 8.—Beach Hargis, the boy who murdered his fiendish father, choked and was unable to speak when arraigned before Judge Talbush today. He was remanded to jail without bond and no one is to be allowed to see him. The boy will plead self defense.

RUTH BLECKMAN'S CONDITION GRAVE

It is announced today that the condition of Miss Ruth Bleckman, daughter of the late A. E. Bleckman, Sr., is grave. Miss Bleckman came here from Michigan where she was teaching school to attend the funeral of her father, and a few days after the funeral was stricken with a dangerous attack of diphtheria.

WEATHER FORECAST

Coldest, 8; warmest, 22; wind, 4 miles; precipitation, trace.
Green Bay with 19 below was coldest yesterday; Phoenix with 66 was warmest.

Forecasts today:

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday, possibly snow flurries by Sunday night; not much change in temperature.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy with possibly snow flurries in south portion tonight or Sunday, not much change in temperature.

Iowa—Probably snow flurries tonight or Sunday, not much change in temperature.

Weather Conditions.

The pressure is high from the Missouri valley to the Atlantic states, with the center of high pressure over the upper lakes. The pressure has decreased in the southwest and on the north Pacific slope and moderate lows are located in western Texas and in Oregon. This pressure distribution favors fair weather in this section tonight and Sunday without much change in temperature.

Light snow flurries have occurred from the upper Mississippi valley to the New England states. Elsewhere the weather has been generally fair. It is slightly colder in the Atlantic states and the rocky mountains and warmer from the Rocky mountains to the Mississippi valley.

KENOSHA, Wis., Feb. 8.—Henry Hamilton, a ward of the Kenosha branch of the Young Men's Christian association, who was paroled from the Iowa state prison at the request of L. H. Fox, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., is in jail here awaiting the arrival of officials of the Iowa prison. Hamilton was convicted of the charge of forgery and sentenced to a term of six years in the Iowa prison. L. H. Fox, knowing that liquor had been the cause of Hamilton's downfall, went to Gov. Cummins, who agreed to parole Hamilton to Mr. Fox. Hamilton was brought to Kenosha and given the position as janitor of the local association's building. Two weeks ago Hamilton began the use of intoxicants and the association officers had him lodged in jail and notified the authorities of the Iowa prison.

AUTOMOBILE RUN PLANS COMPLETED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—The "Three-Century" automobile run planned by the Milwaukee Automobile Trade association for Feb. 26, 27 and 28, will mark a new line of sport in the west. Al Recke, president of the association, has mapped out the route, and he says no less than thirty machines will take part. The trip will be 300 miles long, and will be similar to a yacht race. The first "leg" will be Milwaukee to Madison; the second, Madison to Oshkosh; and the third will be from Oshkosh to Milwaukee. Each leg is estimated to be 100 miles long.

BOY IS KILLED BY SNOW SHOVELER

APPLETON, Wis., Feb. 8.—Clifford Kaphingst, aged 12 years, met with an accident which will cost him his life. The boy was shoveling the walk with a shovel which had no cross piece on the handle. The shovel caught on a nail, the lad slipped, striking the sharp end of the handle, which penetrated his body.

Y.M.C.A. DEFEATED BY SPARTA TEAM

LOSE BASKETBALL GAME BY SCORE OF 28 TO 30

PLAYED ON SLIPPERY FLOOR

Local Boys Were Thus Handicapped, but Expect to Turn the Tables When Return Game is Played

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team returned this morning from Sparta, where they met defeat at the hands of the fast high school five of that place. The final score was 28 to 30 in Sparta's favor.

The game was played in a dancing hall and the slippery floor greatly handicapped the local players, while their opponents were accustomed to these facilities and after a hard fought game took victory with one basket over the La Crosse team. Jefferson starred for his team, while A. Nelson of the La Crosse team made several spectacular field baskets and won much applause from the enthusiasts of the game.

The first half ended with the score of 14 to 17 in favor of the Spartans and La Crosse was unable to overcome the lead during the remainder of the game.

Sparta will play a return game at La Crosse soon after the game with the New York Nationals, who meet the Y. M. C. A. five February 14th.

Those attending the Sparta game were: E. A. Erickson, manager; Secretary Oliver Ash, O. Ruden, W. V. Zein and the members of the team, A. Horton, A. Nelson, Fred Nelson, F. Buchda and Julius Zein.

"MAY BE CRAZY, AIN'T NO FOOL"

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 8.—"I may be crazy, but I ain't no fool," wrote Tommy Burns to a Detroit friend from England, where he is training to meet Jack Palmer. Tommy is getting real English, don't you know. A postal card picture of himself sent with the letter shows him in a stunning suit with a check big enough to play a game of checkers on. Tommy frankly jeers at Jack Johnson, and pictures him waiting to get a fight.

"What do I care," he says. "I'm having a mighty good time, and getting a lot of experience. And what is more to the point, I'm getting the coin. They can call me crazy for not rushing over to meet Johnson, but just put this down in your notebook—they'll never have to hold benefits for me."

"I cleaned up almost 2,000 bones with a show last week, and expect to clear almost $10,000 on the Palmer go. It will be a shame to take the money. Anvils can ring as long as they want to. When the time comes yours truly will hike home and ask this Johnson guy some questions. Regards to the boys."

"RUBE" WADDELL SOLD TO ST. LOUIS

FAMOUS PITCHER GOES WITH AMERICAN TEAM

SAY HE LOST THE PENNANT

As Well as Having Won a Former One by His Phenomenal, but Eccentric Work in the Box

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 8.—After five years of almost ceaseless worry, Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics has been obliged to dispose of "Rube" Waddell.

The famous yet eccentric pitcher has been sold to the St. Louis Americans. Manager Mack would not state what price he had put on Waddell's services, and Manager McAleer of St. Louis would give little information.

Every year since Waddell joined the Athletics in 1902, Mack has had trouble with him and at the end of each season there were rumors that he would let the southpaw go. But Mack could manage him better than any one else and kept him on his string. Each year Waddell continued to have periods in which he pitched phenomenal ball, only to be followed by periods in which he was wholly useless to the club. His great pitching practically won the American league championships for the Athletics, but the fans insist that Waddell's failure to be in condition cost the team the world's championship with the Giants in 1905 and the American league title last fall.

Even with Waddell gone, the Athletics will have a very strong pitching staff in Plank, Dygert, Bender, Coombs and Vickers.

"I'LL PLAY WITH SOX" SAYS FIELDER JONES

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—"I'll play." That short sentence comes from Fielder Jones of the Chicago White Sox.

Jones was in the city a few hours yesterday en route from his home in Bolivar, N. Y., to Portland, Oregon, where he is going to look after some business interests. His brief stop-over was long enough to bring assurance to Chicago fans that he would be with the Comiskey team again this season in the dual role of manager and center fielder.

MILWAUKEE BOWLERS GO TO CINCINNATI

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—More than fifty prominent bowlers, reinforced by about 25 knights of the pin from various cities of the state, will leave here tomorrow night for Cincinnati to take in the national bowling congress. The success of the recent state bowling tournament, and the fact that a world's record was broken, has stimulated interest in the alley sport, and local men expect to see Wisconsin carry off some of the valuable prizes.

GAVE DANE LICKING; ROBBED IN PURSE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 8.—The sporting public thinks Rudolph Unholz was robbed when the purse was divided with Nelson. Under the no decision law the newspapers were depended on for a settlement of bets. All the papers of importance and the special writers gave Unholz a victory. One sporting editor, however, declared a draw should be the decision. Nelson seized on this as an excuse and demanded half the purse. Unholz needs the money. He preferred to waive claim to a victory and gave Nelson half the money. Manager McCarey was reluctant to divide, as he knew the Beer was a winner beyond the slightest doubt, but yielded to Unholz's generosity and paid the purse to the men. The general opinion was the Beer allowed Nelson to rob him, but the glory of besting Bat goes to Rudolph, who is considered the coming champion.

From the sentiment shown at the present time Mr. Pulliam will undoubtedly be chosen as president of the association and Mr. Geiger will be elected secretary. It is expected that twenty-five persons will contribute $100 each toward the treasury.

It was resolved to communicate with Cambridge University on the subject and until this has been done officials of the association declare that any statements regarding the final decision are premature. The feeling, however, is against the acceptance of the American challenge.

YACHT DESIGNER ILL

WILLIAM FIFE.

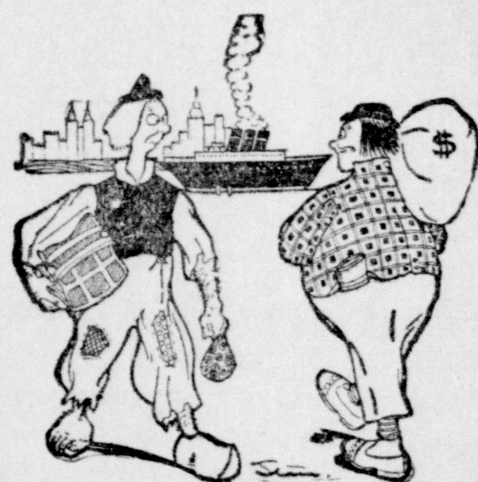

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 8.—William Fife, the yacht designer, is still in a very serious condition from the injuries sustained in his accident of last Saturday. While superintending the construction of Sir Thomas Lipton's new racing yacht Mr. Fife fell from the deck into the hold.

He struck his head and was rendered unconscious. He was carried to his home, where he was unconscious for many hours.

William Fife has been known over the entire yachting world for his wonderfully light racers, his greatest reputation for startling innovations in this line being achieved by the Shamrock III, which in its launching at Dumbarton on the Clyde seemed a mere cork shell.

The schooner Cecily and the cutter Lucida, built in 1902, which were designs of Fife, won many victories. Fife himself sailed the Yama to victory in the Oswego Yacht club regatta in 1890, gaining considerable notoriety. It foreshadowed the full confidence reposed in him by Sir Thomas Lipton in planning for the international racers.

After launching the Kestrel, one of the few failures, for John B. Mills, of the New York Yacht club, Fife sent the Canada to many victories in Lake Ontario, where George Watson's creations were practically swept off the seas.

BUILD THE WARSHIPS.

We believe President Roosevelt should have support in his efforts to secure from congress provisions for the immediate strengthening of our fleet. Diplomacy compels administrative leaders to minimize war talk, and it is possible the president is not in a position to urge his most immediate reasons for seeking the expansion of the navy, but his attitude is in itself an eloquent expression of the existence of alarming possibilities.

The time for argument as to the advisability of this nation's acquiring large insular possessions is past. The thing is done, and quarrels relative to its merits are futile. Having established the policy of national expansion, and put it into execution to the extent of having acquired a large new coast line exposed to attack and without fortifications or sufficient naval protection, it is now incumbent upon congress to afford adequate defenses. A republican congress approved the acquisition of the lands; a republican congress cannot consistently vote to leave them exposed to invasion.

Even at the expense of neglecting other important appropriations, we believe a substantial addition to the navy should be hurriedly provided.

IN HIS OWN BOAT

The announcement that Irving I. Lenroot, of Superior, is out as a candidate for Congressman Jenkins' seat in the lower house, has been seized upon by ardent stewartists as an indication that it is settled between La Follette and Stephenson that the latter is to be given another term in the senate, Lenroot to have their support for the defeat of Jenkins. The idea seems absurd. Senator La Follette would hardly put himself in the position of opposing so useful a congressman as Jenkins, and one who has been a faithful ally of the good government forces, especially at a time when he cannot personally afford another intra-factional controversy. Nor is there in the history of the late senatorial contest in the legislature anything to indicate that even La Follette could induce Lenroot to give up senatorial aspirations in favor of Stephenson, for Lenroot stuck to his own candidacy at that time to the deep chagrin of the Marinette men. It looks as though the ex-speaker is paddling his own canoe in Jenkins' private puddle, with good chances of being capsized.

AND THE MORAL IS—

She was a Poor Little Old Lady of the chatterbox order. Pedestrians were used to meeting her in the streets, clad in the eloquent tag ends of poverty. She would stop people and indulge in inane gossip, always coming round to one subject—the elegance of her only garment which bore evidence of gentility.

"See my little coat," she would say. "It was my grandmother's, and it is the finest coat in the world. No one has so good a coat."

Indeed, for so long had she told the story, that her pride and imagination combined to make her really believe that the once well-tailored but now worn little coat covered all the other defects in her apparel, that she was regarded as well dressed, even immaculately attired. Folk humored her in the idea, because the best way to get rid of her was to say, "Yes, it is beautiful. You must be wealthy indeed to afford it." That killed two birds with one stone, for it served as an excuse to "shake" the shriveled little Hag, and it headed off that which people always feared—that poverty might conquer pride to the extent of permitting her to ask for alms.

But one day the little old dame was standing on an alley curb telling her troubles to a policeman. "See my coat," she began. "It's the swiftest—"

"Lave off, will yez," interrupted the copper. "Sure I'm tired listenin' to th' loikes av yez. Yer whole outfit wud be rejected by a respectable ragman. All auid shoddy but th' coat, and ye wearin' that fer the lasht faarty year wid divil a cint paid on it. Everwan is wize that ye've nary an under-skirt or corset, an' a soup bone is a banquet to founther th' loikes o' yez. Run along now, before I arrests yez fer indecent exposure."

"What a naughty officer," said the Poor Little Old Lady. Then she looked at the reflection of her Coat in a show window, and limped away, certain in her mind that only the policeman knew, and never suspected that the whole world had looked through the shabby little coat and tumbled to her curves.

Moral—And the name of the coat was the Associated Pest.

HE PITS THE SITUATION.

Harpers' Weekly, that "nobody owns," suggests the consistency of Senator La Follette's selection as republican presidential candidate, in the following language:

"Leaving Senator Foraker out of view, on a familiar political theory, which, of course, applies to Secretary Taft, it is clear that if the republican convention is dominated by the railroads whose power has been increased by the words, the deeds and the influence of Mr. Roosevelt, Senator La Follette will best satisfy the party's ideal; if the stand-patters control Speaker Cannon will be the strongest man for he is the incarnation of the party's economic folly; if the middle of the way men prevail Gov. Hughes will be nominated. Secretary Taft labors under the great difficulty that, appealing personally and especially to no element of the party, he is a candidate ordered by the administration."

It having been discovered (or asserted) that President Roosevelt never was the lightweight champion of Harvard, his enemies are going to laugh at the "big stick." Foolish fellows! Today, notwithstanding mean little digs into ancient history, Roosevelt is heavyweight champion of the United States.

FASHION HINTS

(By May Manton.)

5901 Girl's Dress, 8 to 14 years.

To be Worn Over Any Gimppe.

The dress that is worn over a separate gimppe is always a pretty one for the school girls and also is practical for the reason that the gimppe is quite easily renewed and that a fresh one always gives an effect of daintiness to the entire costume. This model is charming and new in many details while it is adapted to a very long list of materials. In the illustration it is made of cashmere with trimming of silk bands and is worn over a lingerie gimppe, but it would be very pretty made from plaid taffeta, or any similar material while it also is well adapted to all the washable materials that are being shown in such attractive form and are already being made up for the coming season. French gingham, chambray, linen and the like are admirable for the model with the trimming either one of the ready-made bandings or colored linen cut into strips.

The dress is made with waist portion and skirt. The waist consists of front and back and is finished with the pointed revers. It has the narrow Japanese sleeves and can be trimmed over the under-arm seams as illustrated or left plain as liked. The skirt is straight, tucked and laid in backward turning plaits and consequently suits the many inexpensive wash fabrics admirably well. In the illustration there is an extra belt that is knotted at each side of the front and worn over a plain one, but such trimming is entirely optional; the plain connecting belt being all that is essential to the making of the dress.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (12 years) is 5 1/2 yards 24 or 27, 4 1/2 yards 32, 4 1/4 yards 44 inches wide with a 4 yards of wide and 1 1/4 yards of narrow banding.

The pattern 5901 is cut in sizes for girls of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years of age and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Dept. of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two-cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

QUIPS AND CRANKS AND WANTON WILES

To the Influenza Germ.
By the shivering fits which chill us,
By the feverish heats which grill us,
By the pains acute which fill us,
By the aches which maul and mill us,
By the quacks who draught and pill us.

By the hydropaths who swell us,
By the allopaths who bill us,
By the nervous fears which kill us,
Tell us, tell us, wee Bacillus,
What, and why, and whence you are!

Say, are you a germ atomic?
Have you uses economic?
Are you truly miasmatic?
Are you solid or lymphatic?
Frankly, is your cause zymotic?
Are you native or exotic?
When your business is transacted
Is your stay to be protracted?
And do you intend, Bacillus,
To return again and kill us?
Do make answer, if you please!

Tell us briefly, tiny mystery,
What's your source and what's your history;
Clear the clouds of obfuscation
That surround your incubation!
Furnish, without more obstruction,
Your belated introduction!
Let us know your way and wherefore,
What it is you're in the air for.
And meanwhile, O wee Bacillus,
Since with morbid dread you fill us,
Prithee, take your leave at once!

A Gratified Wish.

Prof. Edgar L. Larkin, the noted astronomer, was discussing marriage at a dinner in San Francisco. Prof. Larkin believes that it is criminal to continue for life marriages that are unhappy.

"Why condemn," he said, with a grim laugh, "men and women to such misery as afflicts our mutual friends the Blanks? We have all mutual friends in the Blanks' position." "At the height of their nightly quarrel the other day Mrs. Blank choked back a sob and said reproachfully: "I was reading one of your old letters today, James, and you said in it that you would rather live in endless torment with me than in bliss by yourself."

"Well, I got my wish," Blank growled. Washington Star.

Expert Answers.

Trempealeau, Wis., Feb. 7, '08.
Editor:—Your issue of Feb. 6, contains an item (special) from Boscobel, Wis., which states that a bull-snake, five feet long, attacked a horse, etc. Now, Mr. Editor, since the item mentioned was dated Feb. 6, does that mean that his snakeship made the attack on that day? If so, did he wear a fur overcoat or was he so "illuminated" with that liquid which causes mankind to see him where he is not that his usual scaly attire was sufficient protection against Wisconsin weather on Feb. 6, 1908?

Your Trempealeau subscribers await the desired information. Truly yours,
ONE OF THEM.

We reply:

Since you call yourself one of them, it is of the utmost importance to the Snake Editor, that it be settled which one you mean,—one of the snakes, one of the branch of the human race which sees "em where they are not, or one of the Trempealeau subscribers. However, this could not be well settled without further communication and as we are in a hurry to dispose of the matter we proceed undecided on this point. Since we feel certain you are the subscriber who claimed credit for the warm wave recently, it is to be believed that you are up with Charlie Williams on the subject of "Heat." Now, then, it is well known that they have some hot times down in Boscobel, nor are they all in the summer. Therefore that the snakes should cavort in February is not amazing to one understanding the town. When we give our expert answers we believe in going to the bottom of the matter, so we will call your attention to the name of the village where this phenomenon occurred. It is a derivation of the Midway slang. You remember "Bosco," who ate them alive, and his "bill" (menu) was snakes. And hence the nam. of this snakey village Boscobel, or, as it has now been abbreviated and reduced, Boscobel—meaning Berco, the snake eater's bill of fare. Is it not natural that snakes should abound in this place. And from the hot times that are pulled off down there in the winter, we do not think it at all improbable that the snake special is the unadulterated truth.

HOLDING BACK IMMIGRANTS

(New York Sun.)

The Canadian immigration department has just issued an order that no European immigrants be allowed to land at Canadian points this winter unless it can be shown that they have either means to support themselves or friends with whom they can stay. United States Immigration Commissioner Watchorn complained when he was stationed at Montreal that Canada admitted thousands whom the United States had rejected, including paupers and those afflicted with trachoma and favus. He said many of these persons found their way sooner or later into the United States.

The federal authorities then ordered the deportation of all such persons. Now they are also deporting those who have no visible means of support. It is the first time on record that thousands are rushing here in the winter. There are thousands of immigrants in this country now, many of them British subjects who cannot get work. The dominion received 300,000 immigrants during the last year, and a big problem is how to keep the rush back until spring.

ALADDIN OF LONDON

BY MAX PEMBERTON

(Authors and Newspaper Association Copyright.)

"Thank you for your good intentions, my boy. I am very much obliged to your worship. A top-floor attic and a marble bath. Eh, what—you want to put me in a garret? I'll see you the other side of Jordan first. Oh, come, it's a nice game, isn't it? Papa away and little Anna canoodling with the Whitechapel boy. Are we downhearted? No. But I ain't going, old pal, and that's a fact."

He almost fell into an arm-chair and looked upon them with that bland air of patronage which intoxication inspires. Anna, very pale and frightened, was upon the point of summoning the servants; but Alban, wiser in his turn, forbade her to do so.

"You go to bed, Anna," he said quietly. "Captain Forrest and I will have a talk. I'm sure he doesn't expect you to sit up. Eh, Forrest, don't you think that Anna had better go?"

"By all means, old chap. Nothing like bed—I'm going myself in a minute or two. Don't you sit up, Anna. Anywhere's good enough for me. I'll sleep in the greenhouse—eh, what? Your gardener'll find a new specimen in the morning and get fits. Mind he don't prune me, though. I can't afford to lose much at any time of life. You go to bed, Anna, and dream of little Willy. He's going to make your fortune on Thursday—good old Lodestar, some of 'em'll feel the draught, you bet. Don't spoil your complexion on my account, Anna. You go to bed and keep young."

He rambl-d on, half good-humoredly, wholly determined in his resolution to stay. Anna had never found him obstinate or in opposition to her will before, and blazing cheeks and flashing eyes expressed her resentment at an attitude so changed. "Alban," she said quietly, "Captain Forrest will not stay. Will you please see that he does not?"

She withdrew upon the words and left the two men alone. They listened and heard her mounting the stairs with slow steps. While Forrest was still disposed to treat the matter as a joke, Alban had enough discretion to avoid a scene if it could be avoided. He was quite calm and willing to forget the insult that had been offered to him.

"Why not make an end of it, Forrest?" he said presently. "I'll go to the hotel with you—you know perfectly well that you can get a bed there. What's the good of playing the fool?"

"I was never more serious in my life, old man. Here I am and here I stay. There's no place like home—eh, what? Why should you do stunts about it? What's it to do with you after all? Suppose you think you're master here. Then give us a whisky-and-soda for luck, my boy."

"I shall not give you a whisky-and-soda and I do not consider myself the master here. That has nothing to do with it. You know that Anna wishes you to go, and go you shall. What's to be gained by being obstinate?"

Forrest looked at him cunningly. "Appears that I intrude," he exclaimed with a sudden flash which declared his real purpose. "Little Anna Gessner and the boy out of Whitechapel making a match of it together—eh, what? Don't let's have any rotten nonsense, old man. You're some on the girl and you don't want me here. Say so and be a man. You've played a low card on me and you want to see the hand out. Isn't it that? Say so and be honest if you can."

"It's a lie," retorted Alban, quietly—and then unable to restrain himself he added quickly, "a groom's lie and you know it."

Forrest sobered in a moment by the accusation, sprang from his chair as though stung by the lash of a whip.

"What's that," he cried, "what do you say?"

"That you are not the son of Sir John Forrest at all. Your real name is Weston—your father was a jockey and you were born at Royston near Cambridge. That's what I say. Answer it when you like—but not in this house, for you won't have the opportunity. There's the door and that's your road. Now step out before I make you."

He pointed to the open door and drew a little nearer to his slim antagonist. Forrest, a smile still upon his face, stood for an instant irresolute—then recovering himself, he threw the glass he held as though it had been a ball, and the missile, striking Alban upon the forehead, cut him as a knife would have done.

"You puppy, you gutter-snipe—I'll show you who I am. Wipe that off if you can," and then almost shouting, he cried, "Here, Anna, come down and see what I've done to your little ewe lamb, come down and comfort him—Anna, do you hear?"

He said no more, for Alban had him by the throat, leaping upon him with the ferocity of a wild beast and carrying him headlong to the lawn before the windows. Never in his life had such a paroxysm of anger overtaken the boy or uttering, blindly he struck; his blows rained upon the cowering face as though he would beat it out of all recognition. He knew not wholly why he thus acted if not upon some impulse which would avenge the wrongs good women had suffered at the hands of such an impostor as this. When he desisted, the man lay almost insensible upon the grass at his feet—and he, drawing apart, felt the hot tears running down his face and could not restrain them.

For in a measure he felt that his very chivalry had been faithless to one who had loved him well—and in the degradation of that violent scene he recalled the spirit of the melancholy years, the atmosphere of CHAPTER XVII Father and Daughter.

Richard Gessner returned to Hampstead on the Friday in Ascot week and upon the following morning Anna and Alban came back from Heuley. They said little of their adventures there, save to tell of quiet days upon sunny waters; nor did the shrewd questioning add one iota to the tale. Indeed, Gessner's habitual curiosity appeared, for the time being, to have deserted him, and they found him affable and good-humored almost to the point of wonder.

It had been a very long time, as Anna declared, since anything of this kind had shed light upon the commonly gloomy atmosphere of "Five Gables." For weeks past Gessner had lived as a man who carried a secret which he dared to confess to none. Night or day made no difference to him. He lived apart, seeing many strangers in his study and rarely visiting the great bank in Lombard Street where so many fortunes lay. To Alban he was the same mysterious, occasionally gracious figure which had first welcomed him to the magnificent hospitality of his house. There were days when he appeared to throw all restraint aside and really to desire this lad's affection as though he had been his own son—other days when he shrank from him, afraid to speak lest he should name him the author of his vast misfortunes. And now, as it were in an instant, he had cast both restraint and fear aside, put on his ancient bonhomies and given full rein to that natural affection of which he was very capable. Even the servants remarked a change so welcome and so manifest.

BONI AND HELIE

(Record-Herald.)

Count Boni is what is commonly known in this country as a whiffet. But he is a David and Goliath combined by comparison with Prince Helie. He slapped the prince, he spat in his face, he knocked him down, he kicked him, and the prince lay in the gutter and waited for more kicks. In all Paris there could have been no guttersnipe with less spirit than Helie. Count Boni towered above him morally as well as physically. He had "done noble," but with such a bit of soft yielding pulp to kick he reached the end of his resources. "I did not know what to do," he exclaimed, "so I left him there."

Yet from what we have read of Count Boni we judge that the average American or French citizen could break him in two without much difficulty. And though he is an athlete by comparison with the prince he is not unlike that blue-blooded aristocrat in his scorn of certain conventional scruples. If actresses were willing to supply him with food and automobiles he would accept their gifts and live at their expense until they grew weary of him and turned him out of doors.

There are men in America of this stamp, and it seems a little curious that American girls who would have a shiver of shame and horror at the native product should take the foreign count or prince quick. And take him, too, though his precious title is but the survival of a monarchical tradition in a republic. Even the coarsest of the vulgar rich should feel some humility after investing in such a sham.

The idea of making Hitchcock resign from his cabinet office in order to manage part of Secretary Taft's campaign seems a useless discrimination. Were the policy followed in every case the president, the cabinet and all the first, second and third assistants would have to resign.

One Bottle Cured Grip

MR. M. D. WINGATE.

Mr. M. D. Wingate, of Petoskey, Mich., who was laid up with grip for several weeks, was completely cured by one bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey after other medicines failed to do him any good.

Mrs. Wingate received more benefit for throat and lung trouble from taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey than from all other remedies.

Thousands of letters like the following are received from grateful men and women who cannot say too much in praise of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the benefits derived from its use.

"I wish to tell you and the public what your Pure Malt Whiskey has done for me. Last February I was taken with a severe attack of the grip that laid me up for several weeks. The doctor gave me his usual remedy for grip, but I did not improve and as I had used several bottles of your Malt Whiskey, I procured a bottle and took it according to directions. In a day or two I felt much better and by the time I had used the one bottle I was much stronger. It is surely a great medicine for old people. My wife used it for throat and lung trouble and she thinks it has done her more good than anything else she ever tried."—M. D. WINGATE, Petoskey, Mich., April 12, 1907.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark "Old Chemist" on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1. Illustrated medical booklet and doctor's advice free. TAKES RED TAPE TO CHANGE NAME

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Feb. 8.—The town of Pierpont, which since the early days has been burdened with the postoffice name of Pierpont, will hereafter be known as official-ly recognized by the postoffice department as Pierpont, the necessary action having recently been taken by the postoffice department to omit the "t" from the name as it has heretofore appeared on the records of the department. The change required quite a bit of red tape. It was necessary to close the books kept under the old postoffice name, to issue a new commission to the postmaster, F. B. Udell, and to open an entirely new set of books, everything being done that would be necessary in the case of opening an entirely new postoffice.

JOHN H. JOHNSON QUILTS JOURNALISM

WINONA, Minn., Feb. 8.—J. H. Johnson, for many years a prominent newspaper man of this city, has retired from that business permanently.

Mr. Johnson was the owner of the Daily Herald prior to its consolidation with the Republican. After selling out that paper he published the American Stock Farm, and also the Farmer's Wife, both of which he built up into very successful papers.

He has now sold both of these, and will hereafter devote himself exclusively to the real estate and loan business.

For a number of years Mr. Johnson was an active member of the Minnesota Editorial association. He was also very active in local affairs, having been one of the founders of the Winona Business Men's association, and also of the Winona street fair, which have grown to be the largest street fairs in the country.

NORTHWEST IN BRIEF

MITCHELL, S. D.—The citizens of Mitchell will have an opportunity on Feb. 25 to vote on the issuance of $69,000 bonds for the erection of a new high school building.

BELLE PLAINE, Minn.—Archbishop Ireland, together with sixteen priests of the diocese, were visitors of Monsignor Kennedy.

CEYLON, Minn.—B. D. Alton, a prominent farmer living near here, was seriously injured while attempting to break a colt. The animal became vicious, throwing B. D. Alton against the side of the barn, breaking his collarbone and injuring him internally.

It is hard to say "No," but it is harder to say "I don't know."

NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address, Mrs. M. Summers, Box 8, Notre Dame, Ind.

NO ALDERMEN IN STATE OF IOWA

WATERLOO, Ia., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—A political tangle which is causing uneasiness in certain quarters has arisen in Waterloo. The socialists have arranged to comply with the primary law and recently circulated petitions for nominations for the office of councilmen. Unfortunately they used the term "alderman" in their nomination papers in stead of "councilman" and a question of legality has come up. It is said the Iowa law does not recognize such a municipal office as "alderman," that the man who directs the welfare of the city is just plain "councilman." The socialists are bound by law to enter the primaries and the time has not passed for the filing of nomination papers, hence trouble is likely to ensue unless the papers are allowed to stand as they are.

STARVING MAN RETURNS PURSE

WATERLOO, Ia., Feb. 8.—Waterloo citizens are considering a suitable reward for Theodore Hansen, who in the face of starvation returned a purse containing $20, which he found on the streets. Mr. Hansen has been unable to get employment for some time and his wife and seven children are on the verge of starvation. The overseer of the poor was informed of their condition by neighbors, but the family refused charity. Mr. Hansen would have been acceptable, but he could not bring himself to take something wrongfully for the first time in his life.

JUDGE ORDERS DRAINAGE COMPLETED

BEMIDJI, Minn., Feb. 8.—Judge McClenahan has ordered the construction of two state ditches in Koochiching county. One of the proposed ditches will be located south of Big Falls toward Northome, and will be about twelve miles in length. It is estimated that this ditch will be the means of draining 25,000 acres of swamp land that, when reclaimed, will be as fertile as any in the entire state of Minnesota.

A second ditch will be between Little Fork and International Falls, and will be about eighteen miles in length. Twenty-five thousand acres of swampy land will be reclaimed directly by this ditch. The final hearing on these ditches will be held at International Falls on Feb. 13, at the term of court to be held at that place.

In connection with the construction of the ditches roads will be built at the same time that the ditches are dug.

SOCIETY SINS IS THEME OF RILEY

EVANGELIST PREACHES STIR-RING SERMON LAST NIGHT

FIFTY ADVANCE TO THE ALTER

First Half Hour Is Spent in Singing and the Meeting Was a Most Remarkable One

Last night a packed house greeted Messrs. Riley and Martin. The interest has increased from night to night until fully fifty found their way to the front at last evening's service.

The choir filled the rostrum and for thirty minutes Mr. Martin led the service of song to the delight and inspiration of the large audience.

Dr. Riley took for his text I. Tim. 5:6, having for his theme "Society—Sins." Though himself a preacher for the past twenty-five years he showed familiarity with his subject in hand and the hearty response from the audience proved that the truth was taking hold in their hearts. The closing moments will not soon be forgotten, young people came from the gallery, ground floor and choir to take the evangelist's hand and confess Christ.

Sunday in the First Baptist church at 10:30 Dr. Riley will preach on the meaning and value of church membership; at 3 p. m. a mass meeting for men only will be held at the Y. M. C. A. hall.

Dr. Riley will give his famous lecture to men on "Playing the Fool." The big chorus choir will be present to lead the men in song.

The evening service will be in the First Baptist church, the subject being "Confessors and Confessors." Doors will be open at 3 p. m.

Rev. Mr. Hoag and Evangelists Riley and Martin expressed themselves as delighted with results of past week.

Pastor Hoag has gone to Minneapolis to supply Dr. Riley's pulpit Sunday morning and night. He will return on the noon train Monday.

Envy is a curious thing. The poor covet the luxuries of the rich, and yet they don't seem to make the rich happy.

PERUNA EDITORIAL NO. I.

Dr. Hartman is now offering Peruna to the public as a regular pharmaceutical product. It is just as ethical as any compound put up for the medical profession. No straining of medical ethics can find any fault with it. THE PRINCIPAL ACTIVE INGREDIENTS are prominently incorporated in the label on the bottle, that the people may know that the claims made for Peruna have a true justification.

The only departure we shall make from medical ethics in the conduct of Peruna affairs in the future, is the fact that we shall continue to advertise and sell our product TO THE PEOPLE.

If we would agree to sell to doctors only, to advertise for doctors only, then the medical fraternity would be obliged to recognize Peruna as being entirely within their approval.

BUT WE SHALL NOT DO THIS.

We shall continue to offer Peruna to the people. We shall continue to convey to the people our claims for Peruna as a household remedy. We shall continue to supply the people with free literature, teaching them how to use our medicine, teaching them how to avoid disease, teaching them many things of benefit to the home. We shall continue to do this, whether the medical profession like it or not.

We are proposing from this time on to take the public into our confidence. Notwithstanding that some imitators and substitutes will be attempting to put up something which they consider just as good as Peruna, we are going to draw aside the veil of secrecy and allow any one who chooses to know exactly OF WHAT PERUNA IS COMPOSED.

This ought to disarm all honest criticism. We expect, however, that criticism will continue. On some pretext or other those who are envious of the success of Peruna will continue to find fault. But we are determined to give such people no just complaint. PERUNA IS A GREAT MEDICINE.

It has become a household word in millions of homes. Our faith in the remedy is stronger than ever. Every year we expect to establish new plants in foreign lands until the people of all the world are supplied with this valuable household remedy.

WE CLAIM PERUNA TO BE A CATARRH REMEDY. Buy a bottle and try it. If it helps you, be honest and acknowledge that it has helped you.

If you want us to we will publish your statement exactly as you furnish it to us. We will add no words, take away no words. If you wish us to we will publish your portrait in connection with it. We will not do this without your written request, without your entire consent.

Peruna has cured thousands of people of chronic catarrh, in many phases and locations. At least, that is what the people say to us, through unsolicited testimonials. Peruna will cure many thousand more, in spite of fabricated slanders to the contrary.

WE GUARANTEE EVERY BOTTLE OF PERUNA TO CONTAIN THE INGREDIENTS PRINTED ON THE LABEL.

We guarantee that every testimonial we use is absolutely true—in the exact language of the testifier.

We guarantee that every photograph published is the photograph of the person whose name it bears, that every word of every testimonial was authorized by the hand that signed it.

We are determined to beat our opponents by being fairer than they are, by dealing squarer than they dare to. We are determined to meet falsehood with truth, duplicity with candor, insincerity with sincerity.

We know that the users of Peruna will appreciate our stand. We believe that the dealers in Peruna will applaud our course. We expect even our opponents will be obliged to acknowledge finally that Peruna is not only an honest and useful remedy, but one of the GREATEST HOUSEHOLD MEDICINES ON THE CONTINENT.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF CORPORATIONS

People are coming to understand pretty well that corporations are not entirely "soulless" after all. They are human enterprises and so have many human characteristics, including both faults and virtues. Their peculiarities are not very different from the peculiarities of individuals—and, incidentally, are much more easily remedied when they are disagreeable.

The Wisconsin Telephone Company is a thoroughly modern corporation, in the best sense of the phrase. It is enterprising, energetic and honest. It is not infallible, but then, nobody is. It has made mistakes, of course, and very likely will make others, but experience shows that it is anxious to "do about right" and cheerfully adopts any betterment it can.

Sometimes the company finds the public laboring under a misapprehension and says so, frankly. Telephone engineering and operation are difficult professions and their details naturally cannot be understood by the layman without special investigation. But the Wisconsin Telephone Company always takes a reason for what it does and tries to explain it.

MORSE SAILS FOR NEW YORK TODAY

FIGHT OF ICE KING ENDS ABRUPTLY AT LIVERPOOL

SEARCH FOR FUNDS IS ON

Bank Receiver Hard After Supposed Hidden Wealth of "Busted" Manipulator

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Feb. 8.—Charles W. Morse will sail for New York on the liner Etruria this afternoon. At Queenstown he announced he would remain a week in England, but on arriving on the Campania today he said he had received a message concerning business which decided him to leave immediately for home. He refused to discuss the nature of the information received.

Mr. Morse traveled under the pseudonym of C. M. Moore. He was found playing cards in the smoking room of the steamer at Queenstown, and was asked why he, New York. Mr. Morse replied:

"I don't mind that. I have rectified matters."

He then abruptly left the room. He was followed and shown clippings from New York cable dispatches, which included a statement that his assets had been attached.

Mr. Morse said he had cabled to America on this subject, and he did not doubt that matters would be made right. He added:

"However, I intend to return to America. When I get there I will certainly see that things are settled justly. The bank will be reconstructed, after which I am sure things will work smoothly."

When asked where he was going after he reached Liverpool Mr. Morse said:

"That is my business. It is not the business of anybody else."

Assets Hard to Find.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The small army of deputy sheriffs who have been hunting all day for Morse assets to satisfy the National Bank of North America's $243,000 claim succeeded in locating in cash only $105.

The balance was found standing to the depositor's credit at the office of Primrose & Braum, his brokers.

Apparently Morse has closed out all his accounts in New York banks. Receiver Charles A. Hanna of the Bank of North America will, however, take no chances on missing some of Morse's assets. About fifty banks and trust companies were served with attachments yesterday, and the process will go on today. It is expected that fully 100 institutions will have been served with attachments before the case is ended.

E. P. KNUTESEN DIES AFTER CATCHING COLD

According to information received by relatives in this city, E. P. Knutesen, a former resident, died at his home in Los Angeles, California, Wednesday.

Death was due indirectly to a cold contracted while on a trip to Seattle recently and enlargement of the liver resulted. The body is expected to arrive in La Crosse about Tuesday and interment will be made here.

Mr. Knutesen was born in Norway 73 years ago. He removed to America, locating first at Madison, later removing to Lodi where he lived for a number of years, and about 30 years ago coming to La Crosse. For about 20 years he was in business here, operating a general store on Third street, later on Fourth at the head of Pearl and later establishing a shoe store at 405-407 Main street.

When he retired he disposed of this store to the late L. W. Foster. For some years Mr. Knutesen spent considerable time in California and about 10 years ago located there permanently. Up to his last illness he had enjoyed good health.

Those left to mourn his loss are a widow and five children. The children are as follows: Mrs. E. E. Seville of Lodi, Wis.; Mrs. R. J. Collie of Merrill, Wis.; Mrs. H. W. Merrill of Beloit, Wis.; Mrs. H. L. Farum of Kansas City, Mrs. H. L. Colman of La Crosse, Mrs. W. F. Corning of Chicago, I. B. Knutesen and Mrs. E. O. Edwards of La Crosse and Mrs. J. Russell Wheeler of Columbus, Wis.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY IN HOUSTON

The La Crosse high school basketball five left this morning for Houston, Minn., where they will meet the Houston high school basketball team this evening.

After the defeat of the team at the hands of the Sparta boys last Saturday, they have worked hard and Coach Mueller is confident they will win lost laurels in today's game. The Houston team is reputed as one of the strongest amateur teams in southern Minnesota and the game promises to be an exciting one.

The following left for Houston this morning: Coach Alfred Mueller, W. Tourtellotte, Larson, Captain A. Dahlgren, Ralph and Charles Bradish and Hugo Schladach.

COR. FIFTH AND JAY ST. TRIBUNE BUILDING LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN

BATTLE TO OUST WEAKER SISTER

I have received replies and instructions from all the clubs excepting Wausau and I am unable to report to you that the majority have decided to fight the injunction proceedings brought on by Eau Claire and have given various reasons for so doing.

"As per my instructions from the league I have secured a very capable attorney, Mr. J. F. Kluwin of Oshkosh, and am enclosing instructions with this letter relative to having an attorney of your own if you so desire. Change of venue will be taken and the trial will probably be held on or about March 1st.

"Three is very little doubt but what we can set this injunction aside, as the business reasons are so plain.

"I will leave Milwaukee for about ten days and upon my return will assist the attorney in procuring the evidence necessary to dissolve the injunction.

"Send me a record of your last year's attendance so that I can compare it with mine as these reports must be correct.

"Yours very truly,
CHARLES K. MOLL, President.

Local Directors Will Decide

In his letter President Moll says that Attorney Kluwin of Oshkosh will appear for the league and for himself. President Moll, and that the La Crosse club desires to have an attorney of their own he advises that he confer with Attorney Kluwin of the league so that the proceeding may be consistent.

La Crosse was about the only club which did not vote to oust Eau Claire.

President Elliott said this morning he did not know whether he would continue upholding the Eau Claire club, that he would first have to submit letters to the directors of the local association, and that in all probability the matter would be turned over to Vice President Paul W. Mahoney, for advice.

The case will no doubt come up before Judge O'Neill.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SKOGSTAD SUNDAY

ceived. The whole public utility system seemed honeycombed with the baneful practice of discriminations. He cited one case in a small town where a telephone company extends the courtesy of half rates to "one widow and ministers."

The address was opened by a thorough explanation of the railroad commission law and how the board fixed absolute rates. He told how complaints came in on postal cards and by letter and how some matters of the greatest importance were settled informally.

Law Works Well.

Mr. Meyer said in part: "The Wisconsin railroad commission law of June, 1905, is complete and workable," said Mr. Meyer.

"I have described to you what appear to me to be its most noteworthy features. It is strong in every respect and at the time it was enacted it was distinctly a pioneer law. No such law, either state or federal, had been acted before that time; nor has a better one been enacted since.

"One result of the enforcement of the utilities law has been nothing short of amazing. I refer to the prevalence of personal discriminations. The records of the commission show that this state is fairly plastered and streaked with unjust discriminations of all kinds. In the same town, for instance, six consumers of the same class, under identical conditions, may pay six widely different rates. A consumer who uses sixty lights for ten hours for instance, may pay less than another consumer who uses ten lights for same length of time. Naturally discriminations of this kind exist chiefly where so-called flat rates are in vogue. Then again, there exist all kinds of discriminations in favor of officers and employees of the companies. Local officials and politicians and their chosen ones sometimes profit at the expense of the rest of the consumers. Public institutions, social organizations, benevolent societies all give rise to discriminations in various parts of the state. These discriminatory rates can be wiped out only by means of reductions, without applying to the commission. It is needless to add that the commission is doing everything in its power to hasten the day when the last of these unjust rates shall be abolished.

In the past we have heard much about discriminations in railway rates, but I doubt whether the railway discriminations in the full height of their bloom, twenty years ago, ever equalled the discriminations now existing in the utilities in their personal and social injustice. The Wisconsin utilities law is the only law in the United States which, so far as I know, makes it possible to discover and eliminate such injustices."

Notable among the incidents of discrimination cited was the following, showing the discrimination in electric lighting of a Wisconsin city:

THIS WOMAN HAS TWO AFFINITIES

men believes in the affinity ideas. Mrs. Franks gave a graphic description of her life since she adopted affinity principles. She is 21 years of age and attractive.

"I was married when I was 16," she said, "and soon afterwards became acquainted with McDonald. From the first I knew he was—well, what professors call an affinity, so I left my husband and went with him to Minneapolis. He was employed there by the Northwestern railroad. Life was happy for several years, when my second 'soulmate' appeared. I had believed that there could be but one. But when he said 'Come,' I went with him. We came to Chicago to live.

"But before we were settled here McDonald dropped in from apparently nowhere. All I remember after that was that some one was stabbed and the police came and arrested all of us."

McDonald willing to forgive. "The woman was my wife," said McDonald in his cell. "I married her three years ago, and the two little children with her—Elma and Percy—are mine. To get them back I'll take my wife and forgive her. I traced her trunks to Chicago and when she and her new affinity refused to give up the boy and girl and attacked me I used a knife."

"The number of husbands, would-be husbands, affinities, and such make it too complicated to figure out," said Inspector Revere.

NEXT WEEK AT LEITHOLD'S

THE JUMPING OFF PLACE.

"Consumption had me in its grasp; and I had almost reached the jumping off place when I was advised to try Dr. King's New Discovery; and I want to say right now, it saved my life. Improvement began with the first bottle, and after taking one dozen bottles I was a well and happy man again," says George Moore, of Grimesland, N. C. As a remedy for coughs and colds and healer of weak, sore lungs and for preventing pneumonia, Dr. King's New Discovery is supreme. 50c and $1.00 at O. T. Erhart, druggist. Trial bottle free.

BADGER COUNTIES ARE FOR BRYAN

MONROE COUNTY INSTRUCTS ITS DELEGATION

CHILTON DELEGATION, TOO

Evident that the Wisconsin Delegation to the National Convention Will Be For the "Peerless"

SPARTA, Wis., Feb. 8.—At the democratic county convention for Monroe county held in this city, J. P. Rice, Judge R. B. McCoy, Dr. C. E. Quigg, Dan Crowley, Albert Grill, Charles Todd, J. J. Bowler, W. R. McCaul and Austin Wright were elected delegates to attend the state convention. Resolutions endorsing William J. Bryan were adopted and the delegation was instructed to support Congressman Weiss and Murphy, H. H. Manson and J. A. Aylward for delegates-at-large to the Denver convention.

MAUSTON, Wis., Feb. 8.—In the democratic county convention seven delegates were elected to the state convention. Bryan was endorsed. It was the sentiment of the meeting that Daniel H. Grady of O'Prage receive the delegates' support as delegate-at-large to the national convention.

PORTAGE, Wis., Feb. 8.—At the democratic county convention to select delegates to the state convention Daniel H. Grady, candidate for delegate-at-large from Wisconsin to the democratic national convention in Denver next July, was accorded the privilege of naming the Columbia county delegation.

CLINTON, Wis., Feb. 8.—At the democratic county convention which elected delegates to the state convention a resolution was passed, endorsing W. J. Bryan for president, and instructing the delegates to vote for P. H. Martin of Green Bay and H. H. Mauston, chairman of the state central committee, as delegates-at-large to the Denver convention.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF AN AGED MISER

OFFICIALS BELIEVE HE LEFT A HIDDEN FORTUNE

MADE BARREL COLLECTIONS

Lived Poorly and Was Laughed at by Boys on the Streets, But May Have Had Secreted Wealth

MARINETTE, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—A pitiful case of miserly living, and a life of secrecy has been uncovered here in Peter S. Downey, who is now being cared for at the county poor farm.

In the belief that Downey has a hidden fortune, the county officials are making an investigation of his homestead on Mott street.

As far as can be learned, Downey has for years peddled kerosene and his mania for collecting oil barrels has made him into a character for the boys of the street. His yard is piled high with empty barrels; yet not one would he break up for fire, wood, although he laid freezing and starving in the cold, gloomy house, to stinky to spend his money.

For months there has been no fire in his home. He has eaten sparingly; stunted himself until he was but a skeleton. That he had plenty of money to buy the necessities of life was found when his home was searched.

Downey's wife left him several years ago. He withdrew more from the public gaze after that, and one day he was picked up near his home, too weak to stand.

Fred Hubert, poor commissioner, says that the case of Downey is one of the most miserable that has ever come under his notice, and he has seen many of them.

Socialists Talk Ominously To Chancellor Von Buelow

German Parliament and Chancellor Von Buelow.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The contest between the socialist party and Chancellor von Buelow for the government in Germany reached a critical stage last week when the following significantly worded appeal was presented to the reichstag by the socialists:

"On what ground does the chancellor consider manhood suffrage, as already granted for the election to the imperial parliament, to be harmful to the interests of one of the federal states?" The parliament buildings have been surrounded by police as trouble was anticipated.

Prince von Buelow opened the reichstag proceedings by a warning against further manifestations, which he declared did not affect the government in the slightest degree. He threatened amid ironical cheering from the socialists, that the leaders and organizers of all demonstrations would be dealt with severely.

The chancellor trembled with indignation when he referred to the street manifestations and terrorism which he declared had been introduced into the capital. He stigmatized the street demonstrations as dangerous to the country, and he looked directly at the socialist members when he announced that the organizers would be held responsible. He was compelled to pause for several minutes because of derisive laughter from the socialist benches.

Herr Fischer, socialist, in the course of a speech, accused the police of "infamously utilizing the services of detectives, who mixed with the demonstrators and led in the cries and singing, thus creating cause for the intervention of their uniformed comrades. One of them, however, a man named Kassube, who had been most prominent in the procession, had received well-merited punishment for his treachery, being so badly injured by blows from the sabers of his comrades, who did not recognize him, that he was obliged to be driven home in an ambulance. Herr Fischer demanded the same rights for public manifestations as existed in other European countries, and said that the socialists were prepared to accept responsibility for the street demonstrations.

Herr Kreth, conservative, aroused an uproarious tumult among the socialists when he asserted that the leaders of that party were most prominent by their absence from the streets during the demonstrations, which they had misled others into undertaking, even advising the participants to take their wives and children with them as protection against the police.

When Herr Kreth finished this statement loud cries were heard of "vagabond," "slanderer," "liar," "scoundrel" and "hypocrite." The tumult lasted for several minutes. During it Herr Bebel, the socialist leader, advanced to the tribune and shrieked at Herr Kreth, "You miserable rascal," while Herr Stadthagen, social democrat, called him a "vulgar vagabond" and "police spy."

The president of the house made vain attempts to restore order. Amid cries of "get down from the tribune!" Herr Kreth concluded his remarks by saying: "I propose an encounter with Herr Stadthagen at which the police shall not be present."

HEALTHY HAIR FOR ALL

BY USING

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

It is now possible for everyone to have healthy and rich looking hair, by using Newbro's Herpicide, the ORIGINAL remedy that "kills the dandruff germ."

The presence of the dandruff germ in the scalp causes first, dull, brittle and lusterless hair, with later, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

All of these disagreeable symptoms will disappear, and the hair grow as nature intended, if the dandruff germ is destroyed and kept out of the scalp. Don't wait for chronic baldness for it is incurable. Herpicide stops itching of the scalp, almost instantly.

"I cannot speak too highly of Newbro's Herpicide, it keeps my hair and scalp in excellent condition."

SEEK TO EMPLOY "MUTE" PRINTERS

DELAVER, Wis., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—That the deaf mute printer is being sought more and more by the larger printing and publishing offices of the west in preference to his more fortunate brother, is the opinion of William H. Watson, one of the most brilliant students that has ever attended the state school for the deaf in this city. Mr. Watson is now one of the best known men in the business.

"The supposed partiality toward deaf mutes is the result of a false impression," he says. "They have proven themselves the steadiest workers in the field, and can always be relied upon for exactness."

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

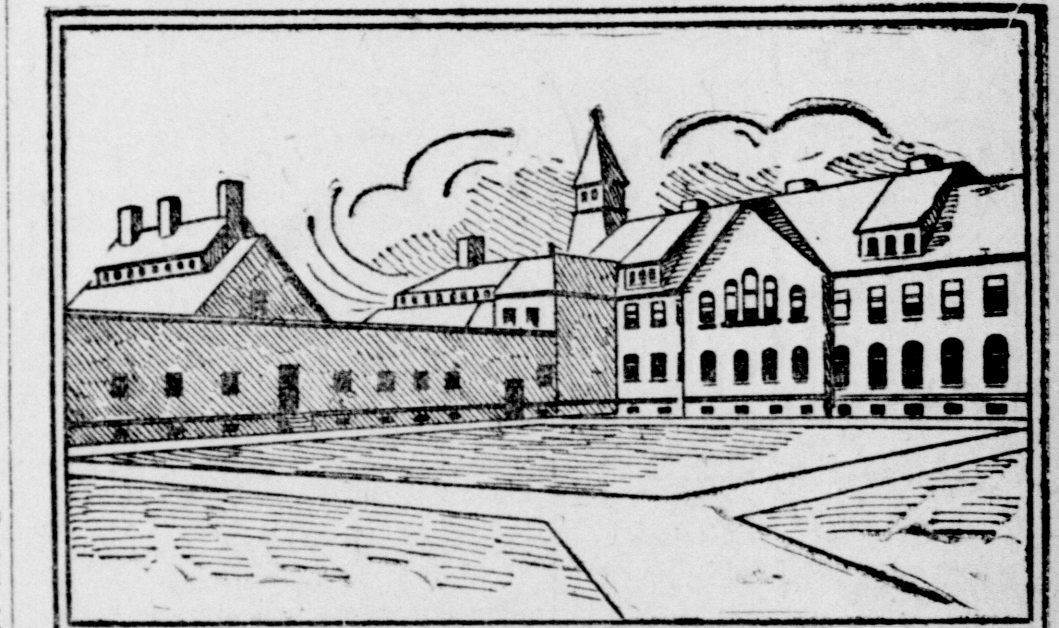

APPLETON—Drunken Indians caused the burning of a building in Freedom. It has been the custom of the reds to assemble at Freedom, where they purchased beer by the keg and drank it in the open, lying about the streets of the village in a drunken stupor. Driven to an empty house by the storm they tapped their keg there and during an orgie set fire to the interior of the place.

APPLETON—Another case of "did not know it was loaded" cost Harry Dauterman, aged 15 years, his life. He was showing a companion a new revolver, when it went off the bullet penetrating his brain.

OSHKOSH—A jury awarded $4,500 damages in the action of R. H. Hackett, administrator of the estate of the late Earl McDonald against the Wisconsin Central. McDonald was killed in a wreck near Waupaca.

MONROE—Henry Ludlow, president of the First National bank, fell on an icy walk, breaking a bone in his right arm.

THAW NOT SO MUCH AMONG THE DISTINGUISHED INMATES AT MATTEAWAN

MATTEAWAN ASYLUM WHERE HARRY THAW IS HELD.

MATTEAWAN, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Harry Thaw, distinguished killer and Tenderloin strut, was pretty much the whole thing in the Tombs, but here in the asylum he is less than ordinary.

Why, the king of England passed him up with a supercilious squint, while Julius Caesar ruminated upon his latest victories without so much as recognizing the formal introduction of the hero of Broadway. Confucius (before his elevation a Chinese murderer) condescended to briefly pay his respects to the hot one from "town" in pigeon English, while the herd of diplomats, queens, generals and political ward bosses joined in lofty disdain of the fellow who had to go to a mad house to learn that, after all, he is not so much.

Fifty miles from New York, stretching its long length upon an isolated bluff, the asylum raises itself against the sky, concealing and confining amid its gloom 600 mindless men and women, Frankenstein's of the human race, in which the wildest passions find abiding places.

By day its exterior aspect spreads gloom, and by night, terror, for from its walls issue shrieks that the thickness of the stones cannot stifle.

Yet Harry Thaw, according to Judge Dowling's order, becomes an inmate of this living tomb.

Headache?

If it does, you should try Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. Why not do so. They will relieve the pain in just a few minutes. Ask your druggist. There are 45,000 druggists in the U. S. Ask any of them. A package of 25 doses costs 25 cents. One tablet usually stops a headache. They relieve pain without leaving any disagreeable after-effects — isn't that what you want?

"My son Frank Snyder has used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for a long time. He never had anything to help him so much for headache. A year ago he came home, and I was down sick with such a dreadful nervous headache. He gave me one of the Anti-Pain Pills, and after while I took another and was entirely relieved. I always keep them in the house now, and gave many away to others suffering with headache."

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

The social happenings of the week have been most pleasant, although not on a specially large scale.

Many social affairs, afternoon and evening, have been enjoyed, and church and club circles have been active.

The chicken-pie supper at the Universalist church was one of the largest church events of the week and was very successful, being largely attended. Society folk are looking eagerly forward to the delightful dancing party which Dr. and Mrs. Farrand will give in the Masonic Temple Tuesday evening of next week. A large number of invitations have been sent out and the affair is one of decided interest.

Several charming parties have been given for Mrs. Ossian Williams of New York city, who was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Tscharnner.

At the theater next Wednesday evening will occur an event of interest socially as well as musically, when Sybil Sammis, the gifted dramatic soprano, will appear in program.

This is the third of the series of entertainments of which Max Bendix and Rudolf Ganz were the preceding ones. Miss Sammis is distinctly a musical treat, as she is in great demand this season, and is one of the most artistic coloratura sopranos on the concert stage. There has been some talk lately about the possibility of bringing Mme. Johanna Gadske to La Crosse. This great dramatic mezzo-soprano and grand opera star is considered the equal of Melba and Schumann-Heink, and of course could only be secured in La Crosse by a liberal subscription, as a large guarantee is required by her manager. At the same time the prices would not be exorbitant, ranging in price from $1.00 to $2.50, the minimum number of seats sold at the latter price having to be 350. It is to be hoped that the plans for bringing Mme. Gadske here will materialize and the opportunity given to hear this noted singer.

CLUB

Mrs. N. Grove, 714 North 9th street, entertained the Thursday Afternoon club. The prizes were won as follows: Mrs. Nutting and Mrs. McGrath, first prizes; Mrs. Lapitz and Mrs. Clark, second; Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Hansen, foot.

SIX O'CLOCK DINNER

Miss Irene Snyder entertained Friday evening at a six o'clock dinner in honor of Miss Nora Nelson, who is soon to be a bride. The evening was spent in music and other amusements. Covers were laid for twelve. Those present were: The Misses Nora Nelson, Margaret Guertin, Mabel Johnson, Elizabeth Drows, Nellie Hahn, Mayme Spettel, Anna Bollrud.

Louise Storch, Nellie Oehler, Sophie Fladlien, Anna Lundgren and Irene Snyder. Miss Nelson was presented with a handsome luncheon set.

SURPRISE PARTY

Miss Celeste Rupp was pleasantly surprised at her home, 1000 Farnum street, Tuesday by a number of friends. The evening was spent in playing games after which refreshments were served. Miss Rupp is about to leave for the west, where she will make her home with her parents and this was a farewell party in her honor. About twenty young people were present.

JOLLY SLEIGHING PARTIES

Miss Ragna Lund was hostess on Thursday evening to a jolly crowd of young folks who were her guests at a sleighing party. The start was made from Miss Lund's residence, 1738 Badger street, about 8 o'clock the party driving to Onalaska and coming back to Miss Lund's about 11 o'clock, where a bountiful spread was awaiting the crowd and to which they did ample justice. Games finished up the evening and shortly after midnight the guests departed. Sixteen young people were entertained.

Another jolly crowd of about 20 young students of the W. B. U. and their friends enjoyed a sleigh ride last evening around town and then were driven to the home of Miss Martha Risberg for supper at half past ten.

Games were indulged in until midnight and a general good time was had.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

The Twentieth Century club was entertained by Mrs. Homer Hart of 122 North Seventh street on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Finch was in charge of the lesson, which was on the Italian artists, Correggio and Giorgione. Mrs. Hardy gave a book review of Rienz. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Dr. Callahan and it will be an evening affair including a musical program and other interesting features.

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENT

Cards have been received in the city announcing the coming nuptials of John A. Layer, formerly of this city, to Miss Sophia Kern, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. Kern, of inland, Neb., to take place Feb. 11.

STAG PARTY

Mr. Harry Olberg was host at a very pleasant bachelor party for a number of his young friends Thursday evening at his residence, 1515 Ferry street. Games and music with pleasant social converse rounded out an enjoyable evening and refreshments were served at 10 o'clock. The following were present: Fred Holbrook, Mr. Lord, Frank Schwalbe, Tom Simpson, Carl Winslow and Fitch Shaw.

SOME FUTURE EVENTS

The Bridge Whist club will meet with Mrs. A. G. Nevins on Monday afternoon.

The Monday Afternoon Embroidery club will meet with Mrs. George Linn, 1501 Kane street, tomorrow.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the English Lutheran church will meet on Tuesday afternoon.

The Wednesday class will meet with Mrs. Lightbody on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. John Salzer will entertain the Wednesday Embroidery club this week.

Mrs. Meister will be the hostess for the Wednesday Afternoon 500 club.

The La Crosse Woman's club will meet with Mrs. Ed Parker on Wednesday afternoon. The lesson will be in charge of Mrs. Bullock and will be on English Castles and Cathedrals.

The Mission circle of the Universalist church will meet with Mrs. Levi Withee on Thursday afternoon.

The next lecture in the Luther league lecture course will be given in the English Lutheran church next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "The Land of the Koran."

The ladies of the West Avenue M. E. church will hold their weekly "Small Aid" at the home of Mrs. Frank Anderson, 1524 Vine street. They are having good times and all ladies are welcome.

The West Avenue Brotherhood of St. Paul will hold their regular meeting on Thursday evening. The subject will be, "Resolved, that it is advisable to have competing telephone companies."

The Ladies' Aid of Westminster Presbyterian church will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Kaupa on Redfield street on Friday afternoon.

The Acme club will be entertained by Mrs. Denney Babb Saturday night.

SOCIAL BREVITIES

Mrs. Charles Dickson of Sioux City, Iowa, is visiting her father, Prof. Hardy.

Mr. F. A. Morley, who has been seriously ill at his home, 1437 Charles street, for the past week, is somewhat improved today.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Vreth of Norwalk were visitors at the home of Joe Lapitz this week.

Miss Sundt of Poehling's millinery department, left for St. Paul this morning on a short visit.

Mr. James Kerr was in Minneapolis this week on business.

BY TERRIBLE ECZEMA—HEAD BECAME A MASS OF ITCHING RASH AND SORES—WOULD SCRATCH TILL BLOOD CAME—MUCH MONEY WASTED IN FRUITLESS TREATMENTS—DISEASE WAS SOON CURED AT SLIGHT COST BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our little girl was two months old when she got a rash on her face and within five days her face and head were all one sore. We used different remedies but it got worse instead of better and we thought she would turn blind and that her ears would fall off. She suffered terribly, and would scratch until the blood came. At night, we had to pin her hands down. This went on until she was five months old, then I had her under our family doctor's care, but she continued to grow worse. He said it was eczema. When she was seven months old I started to use Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, and in three weeks—what a change! I kept using the Cuticura Remedies for two months and our baby was a different girl. You could not see a sign of a sore and she was as fair as a new-born baby, and all for the small cost of a dollar and seventy-five cents where we had spent ten times the money for doctoring. She is now two years old and has not had a sign of the eczema since. Mrs. H. F. Budke, R. F. D. 4, LeSueur, Minn., Apr. 15 and May 2, 1907."

SLEEP KILLED

By an Itching Humor. Another Cure by Cuticura Remedies.

"I broke out with a humor which spread almost all over my body. The itching would get worse on retiring, so I could not sleep. I tried several remedies but it grew worse until I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Pills which began to relieve me at once. By the time I had used one vial of the Pills, the humor was entirely gone. I wish every sufferer could secure the Cuticura Remedies. Travis Bates, Hamburg, Ark., April 26, 1907."

IS DETERMINED TO WED STEPDAUGHTER

LINCH, JUST DIVORCED, IS TWICE REPULSED

HE SEEKS THIRD LICENSE

Sioux City Man Gives Up His Wife for Her Pretty Daughter, but Can't Successfully Wed Her

Monday—Divorced from wife at Sioux Falls.

Tuesday—Weds divorced wife's daughter at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Wednesday—South Dakota officials annul marriage; illegal.

Thursday—Applies at Sioux City court house for marriage license; refused.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Feb. 8.—Refused a marriage license by the clerk in the Woodbury county office after having had their marriage annulled in South Dakota because of its illegality, Fred Linch, aged 35 years, and his pretty stepdaughter, Gertrude M. Sovinger, aged 19, are seeking new fields where love is superior to law.

On Monday at Sioux Falls Rose Linch, aged 38, was granted a divorce from Fred Linch. The next day Linch and his divorced wife's daughter, Miss Sovinger, applied at the county clerk's office for a license and secured it. Judge Bailey married them. Then the facts of the relationship between them leaked out and the county clerk demanded the license back, and the judge declared the marriage null and void.

News of the predicament reached the court house in Sioux City, and when the couple presented themselves at the office of the county clerk for a license it was refused them. They appealed to County Attorney Whitney, who, after reading that section of the law which makes marrying a wife's daughter a statutory offense, said "Move on to the next place."

At last reports Linch and his stepdaughter were going to try their luck in Dakota City, Neb., across the river from Sioux City.

It takes a lot of filthy lucre to make a tidy sum.

ANTI-PASS LAW INOPERATIVE

Lawyer Says it Does Not Effect Newspaper Transportation, Replying to Editors

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Feb. 8.—At the recent meeting of the South Dakota Press association a resolution was adopted unanimously asking W. H. Clark, attorney general, to render his opinion as to whether the anti-pass law in South Dakota is a bar to the making of contracts between newspapers and railroad companies for transportation good within the state on an exchange basis.

John Cogan, secretary of the association, has received a reply from the attorney general, who holds in effect that contracts entered on good faith on this basis are not forbidden by law

ERHART'S RED CROSS DRUG STORES

AFFAIRS FOR MRS. WILLIAMS
Many pleasant affairs have been given for Mrs. Ossian H. Williams, Mrs. Tscharnner's sister, who has been her guest for a short time. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Tscharnner was hostess at a charming bridge, at which the guests gathered around five tables. Mrs. C. N. Moller won the first prize, Mrs. W. R. Montague the second, and Mrs. John Brindley the third. A pretty idea carried out by Mrs. Tscharnner was that of using one room for a buffet luncheon, which was partaken of at will. The dining table was handsomely decked with red carnations and the hostess dispensed dainty refreshments amid social chat and good cheer. On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Wallace Montague entertained at three tables of bridge for Mrs. Williams. The first prize was won by Mrs. Abblett and the consolation by Mrs. Platz. Several other delightful affairs were tendered Mrs. Williams and her visit was much enjoyed.

MISS DONNELLY IN LION AND MOUSE

SHE WAS THE ORIGINAL OF CANDIDA HERE

GIVES SKETCH OF MR. SHAW

Tells of Home Life of Englishman;
Has Visited His Home
Many Times

Miss Dorothy Donnelly, who is playing the Mouse in "The Lion and the Mouse" at the theater, Monday, Feb. 17, and who was the original Candida in this country, is naturally a great admirer of George Bernard Shaw. In London Miss Donnelly has frequently been the guest at the Shaw home, and the intimate picture she gives of the playwright's home life casts an altogether new light upon the Shaw personality.

In this country, where he never has been, Shaw is known largely through his vagaries—or at least, to vagaries attributed to him. This, according to Miss Donnelly, has resulted in a misconception of the man.

"Mr. Shaw," she says, "is not a poseur. He is tremendously in earnest. His chief interest is politics. He is a socialist. Of course in 'Candida' he was popularly supposed to write a satire on socialism, though what he really did write was a remarkable study of calf love.

"His home life is beautiful. Mrs.

siders "Man and Superman" his greatest work, though professing her own preference for "Candida." When "Man and Superman" was presented in this country by Arnold Daly, the third act was omitted. In London a similar course was followed in order to bring the play down to ordinary length. Last summer, however, London saw the third act presented in conjunction with "The Man of Destiny," another Shaw play.

Miss Donnelly, herself having played the lady in the piece in this country, went to see the London production in which Irene Vanbrugh played her part. Of the English player's art she says:

"Her work, of course, was charming" and of "The Man and Superman" act "it was very cleverly arranged, the lights being directed against the audience instead of against the stage. The background was black, and each player as they made their appearance, was 'picked up' by a spot light. The glare of light almost blinded you, but the effect was tremendous. This scene, laid in hell, contains an epitome of all of Shaw's views. It is a wonderful thing, and it is too bad it has never been done in this country."

Miss Donnelly's plans for the future contemplate no further Shaw roles. She is under contract to Henry B. Harris, and will soon be starred in a new comedy dealing with a phase of American social life, which has heretofore escaped the playwright. But Miss Donnelly is looking forward with lively anticipation to renewing her acquaintance with Mr. Shaw and his wife when she returns to London next summer to visit them.

THE RIVALS TONIGHT

The tour of Joseph and William W. Jefferson in Richard Brinsley Sheridan's great old English comedy, "The Rivals," will embrace a wide territory this season, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and terminating next July in Halifax, Nova Scotia. They will give a presentation of "The Rivals" at the La Crosse theater tonight.

"CLASSMATES" A FAMOUS CREATION

DEALS WITH WEST POINT LIFE AND CADETS

CHARACTERS LOST IN JUNGLE

Occurrences During Trying Scenes
Reveal the True Ethics of the Soldiers' Lives

When Robert Edson comes to the La Crosse theater Saturday afternoon and evening, Feb. 15, in his new play by William C. DeMille and Margaret Turnbull, "Classmates," the United States military academy at West Point will be revealed in dramatic form for the first time. Several of the scenes and nearly all of the characters have been taken from West Point life and many of the instructors and cadets from the famous military school who witnessed the play during its long run at the Hudson theater in New York vouch for the fact that the play is exactly true to military ethics as laid down at the Point and shows the result of exhaustive study upon the part of the authors. Henry B. Harris will present "Classmates" with exactly the same cast and effects as appeared during its long run in New York.

ROOSEVELT LURED INTO MULDOON 'HIKE'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The regular army is revenged. Last fall its officers had to face a fifteen-mile ride in the Roosevelt horsemanship test.

Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of the general staff, yesterday beguiled the president to William Muldoon's fifteen-mile test on foot.

Both the president and Gen. Bell were guests, after their hike, at a dinner given by Postmaster General Meyer. Gen. Bell was as fit as could be. The president still was fit—dinner. But he admitted he had lost all his appetite for Muldoon tests.

The president had exhibited great curiosity as to the Muldoon system of fitting fat statesmen for the Washington dinner season, since Secretary Root and Gen. Bell have successfully taken the course at White Plains.

SUNDAY'S PLAY A HEART TOUCHER

"Was She to Blame" is one of those delicate pastorals, brimfull of sentiment that rings true and tender, the tear compelling sort when one sees it, be he ever so hardened a patron of the drama, he cannot help but feel that life is worth a renewed and better effort, and that there is good in the world after all. The story of "Was She to Blame," while one quite worth telling, is more worth seeing. At the La Crosse theater Sunday matinee and night.

Shaw idolizes him and he her. They work together, even in his political activities, and Mrs. Shaw is no less enthusiastic a socialist than her husband.

"Shaw's wit is no less keen and cutting in his conversation than in his writings. Occasionally he directs it against himself. In one talk we had I referred to 'Major Barbara,' which did not meet with much success upon the stage, and asked him why it was.

"He replied that the third act of 'Major Barbara' was 'rattling good melodrama. But the fourth act,' he continued, 'you should have seen the British public leaving the theatre before that fourth act was finished,' then followed a highly humorous account of the stampede which spelled failure for his latest play.

"When I was in London last summer Mr. Shaw was at work on his autobiography and was preparing 'Major Barbara' for publication. He is a methodical worker, devoting the morning hours to writing and the afternoons to other pursuits in which his wife always has a part.

"Shaw, of course, has had his troubles with the censor, who is now very much in the public eye. Mrs. Warrington's Profession never has been produced in London and this has long been a sore spot with the playwright. However, he told me one afternoon, with great glee, that two companies were then elsewhere and that it had made a great success."

MR. ELWIN STRONG AT POPULAR PRICES

Theater-goers of this city will have the opportunity of seeing high class standard plays. The company carries special scenery and effects for each play. A note from the Burlington Hawkeye says: "A week of good attractions opened at the Grand last night. The house was packed when Elwin Strong and his players made their initial appearance. The company is a well balanced one and well equipped to depict the attractions that are billed. They are far above the average in every respect and are actors and actresses of ability. 'Down in Maine' was the bill last evening, and it was put on in such a manner that left little room for criticism."

FOSTER TOUCHED FOR HOME RUN AT CUBA

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Rube Foster, the crack pitcher of the Leland Giants, is spending the winter in Cuba twirling for the Havana team. During a recent game in the island between the Havana and the Almendares Rube was beaten, 4 to 3, in which two home runs off the colored pitcher turned the tide of battle. In fact, he was hit harder than Chicago fans are accustomed to see. Not in the number, but in the quality. And not once did the great Foster fan a batter.

He pitched against Ortega in this particular game, and, according to the Havana Daily Post, was out-classed. The crowd of 7,500 went wild when it saw the noted Chicago twirler driven out of the box. Foster had for his receiver a player named Garcia. Shortstop was anchored down by one Bustamante. Nothing could go through him.

HANLON NOW OWNER OF BALTIMORE CLUB

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 8.—If plans which have been formulating for some weeks past mature, the Baltimore Eastern league club will pass into the hands of Edward Hanlon, William J. Clarke and Wilbert Robinson. The assets of the present corporation have been pooled and sold to a new company in which Hanlon will hold the majority of the stock. An option on the remainder has been given to Clarke and Robinson. This means the retirement from the club of Moses N. THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is In Preserving Health and Beauty.

Cost Nothing To Try.
Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectively clears and improves the complexion. It whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh. All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

NORTHERN LEAGUE STILL IN DOUBT

FARGO, N. D., Feb. 8.—The Northern Baseball league meeting held in Fargo yesterday was adjourned to meet at Duluth today. As a result of the session here there may be but a four-club circuit. Winnipeg and Brandon made good on the north end, but neither Grand Forks, Bemidji nor Crookston had anything special to offer, though Crookston was represented. Fargo is all right, and today at Duluth it may be decided to add the Zenith City to Winnipeg, Brandon and Fargo and make a four-club league.

This view may be somewhat changed if the situation in Superior looks encouraging when the promoters meet there today. If Superior should be all right Crookston or Grand Forks will be added to complete the six league circuit.

YALE SWIMMERS ARRANGE TRIP

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 8.—Capt. Richards of the Yale swimming team has arranged an elaborate western trip for Easter week, leaving here on April 12. The team will play the New York Athletic club, the Pittsburgh Athletic club, the Illinois Athletic club, the Chicago Athletic club, University of Chicago and University of Illinois at Champaign. Capt. Richards is the national champion swimmer selected for the American-Olympic team.

The Door of Opportunity.

A well known Chicago merchant was once asked to talk to the boys of a business school. He prefaced his address by a few extempore remarks.

"Boys," said he, "as I approached the entrance to this school room I observed on the panel of the door a word most appropriate to an institution of this kind. That one word expresses the quality most useful to the average boy when he steps into the field of business. Can you tell me what it is?"

"Full!" shouted several of the pupils, with a burst of laughter, while the horrified merchant recognized that he had taken his text from the wrong side of the door.—Philadelphia Ledger.

SUPERIOR HAS GRADE CROSSING FIGHT

SUPERIOR, Wis., Feb. 8.—With two new railroads, about to build their terminals here and lay tracks, Superior is up against a hard fight over the grade crossing matter.

Engineers of the Wisconsin Central and "Soo" have discussed the proposition with city officials and interested citizens, but the only satisfaction they give is the statement that at the mooted crossings absolutely nothing but grade will do.

The council has taken a hand and called a mass meeting to feel the public pulse. The city is anxious to get the roads in as soon as possible and on that account there is some opposition to making trouble for them.

"SIX TIMES NINE"
I counted my tables over and over,
And backward and forward, too.
But I couldn't remember six times nine:
And I didn't know what to do.
Till sister told me to play with my doll,
And not to bother my head.
"If you call her 'Fifty-four' for a while You'll learn it by heart," she said.
So I took my favorite, Mary Anne—
Tho' I thought 'twas a dreadful shame
To call such a perfectly lovely child
Such a perfectly horrid name—
And I called her my dear little "Fifty-four."
A hundred times or more,
Till I knew the answer to six times nine
As well as the answer to two times four.
Next day Elizabeth Wigglesworth,
Who always acts so proud,
Said six times nine was fifty-two.
And I nearly laughed aloud.
But I wished I hadn't when teacher said:
"Well, Dorothy, tell if you can."
I thought of my doll, and sakes alive!
I answered, "Mary Anne."

A CHAT WITH THE EDITOR
Once more I greet you, Juniors, and can only say again that I am so glad to see what good original stories many of you can write. I really think, though, that there should have been more, and so I am going to give you another week of letting you choose your own topic. If you can remember any especially interesting event or something that you thought was funny or exciting, tell us about it on the Junior page next week. Then next week again, I shall give you a very interesting subject. This week I told you I should see which wrote the best story, and as there are always so many good ones, I shall have an Honor Roll of four names after this. And Juniors, there is another thing I must speak about and that is, you are getting a little careless about how you send in your letters, that is in regard to the rules. So many of you write on both sides of the paper. Please try and remember and use only ONE side of the paper. We hope to hear from lots of you next week, from the little members at St. Ann's, and those that are out of town. Juniors, don't forget us. Your friend,

A FINE CAMPING STORY.
Dear Miss Burton:
Seeing my letter in print encouraged me to write again. I go to the St. Joseph's school and am in the 5th grade. My teacher's name is Sister Devota. She is very good to us. I am going to write about the time we were camping at Rice Lake. We had a large tent that was 20 feet wide and 20 feet long; we had it partitioned off into three bedrooms, a big dining room and a kitchen. When the weather was nice we would eat our meals out under the trees, there were three of them close together and it was so nice and cool under them. We had three hammocks and a rope swing and we had lots of fun wading in the water and playing in the sand. We went boat riding almost every day and hunted clams and looked for pearls, but we never found any. We also hunted nice stones. We had visitors almost every day. Papa could not go with us much as he had to be in the store the most of the time. Some times he would come out a little earlier even and we would go fishing and catch some nice big fish. I enjoy reading the Junior page ever so much and hope more will write.
Your loving friend,
IDA KOBLITZ.
(This makes us all want to go camping again, Ida.)

A FOREST ADVENTURE.
Kind Miss Burton:
As I have been reading the Junior page and seeing that so many children are writing, I thought that I would write for the first time. I would like to be on Hazel's Wooden's side or the "Blues." I am in the eighth grade and am 12 years old. You wanted us to write on any subject this week, so I took for my subject, "A Forest Adventure."
John O'Harran was a young pioneer boy of 16 summers, he was quite tall and slender and when anybody looked into his face they saw a beautiful pair of brown eyes looking out from beneath a noble brow. He lived in the deep forests of Maine. His father was a rich lumberman and was going to send John to look up some good timber land in the surrounding country of his home.
"Be careful, John, and do not let the wolves eat you," sang out his father to him as he started out upon his journey.
"Yes, father," answered John as he whipped up his horse and started down the valley. He had his rifle fastened on his back and his blanket laid upon his horse's back. It was about noon when he started. He went up the valley and went up a bluff on one side and rode along the top, gazing over the country, until he saw the sun sinking beneath the western skies.

He then gathered up some dry sticks of wood and built a fire, fixed some bacon and ate some corn bread.
John then tied his horse to a tree and throwing some more wood upon the fire, rolled up in his blankets and went to sleep.
He slept soundly until about 2 o'clock in the morning when he was awakened by his horse who was a nickering. He woke with a start and was on his feet in a minute with rifle in hand. At his left, about one hundred feet from him was a pair of glaring eyes which looked like balls of fire in the darkness. He took a shot at the animal between the eyes and it fell down groaning with pain. John sat up the rest of the night and when the sun rose above the eastern mountain, he and behold there lay a big black grizzled bear. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon it began to snow and continued to for many hours. John did not stop that night, but rode on and on through the darkness and blinding snow. He lost his trail, but his horse knowing his master was lost had turned round and carried John safely home. The next week John's father started out with him to find the bear that John had killed, but the wolves had come and eaten it. They found good timber and John received one-third of the value.
Yours truly,
FRANCES LYONS.

A NICE LETTER FROM A NEW MEMBER.
Dear Miss Burton:
As I see so many of my friends writing to the Junior page I will write also. You told the Juniors they might write on any subject that they selected. Mine is "At a Picnic."
The picnic I am going to tell about was this summer. It was our Sunday school picnic. The park was situated along a quiet running stream. It has large oak trees growing over it and was covered with lovely green grass. The oak trees furnished much shade under which we ate our lunch.
The larger boys made a swing for us. They also made our lemonade and furnished all sorts of games and amusements. They took us out boat riding too. A girl and I were swinging together. I standing and she sitting. When we got to swinging quite high the rope broke and we fell to the ground but did not get hurt. We had lots of fun playing drop-the-handkerchief and other games, also running races. We went home that evening a very happy but tired crowd. This is all for this time. I hope to see this in print and will write again if you wish.

A LETTER FROM A FAITHFUL WRITER.
Kind Miss Burton:
I liked the Junior page stories very much last week. I go to school every day and I do not like to stay out of school. I am in the third B grade. I haven't got any sisters but I have got lots of brothers. I wasn't to Sunday school Sunday, my ma was to visit in the country. My friend is doing very well with her members. Me and my friend never get mad at each other. I like my school teacher because she is very nice. I stay some nights after school and help my school teacher. I will close for tonight. I am Hazel Wooden's friend.
Good bye.

WANTS A STORY EACH WEEK
Dear Miss Burton:
I read the Junior letters and I like them very much. I also read the Junior story and I thought that was very nice also. I hope one will be in every Saturday night. I think a nice name for the "Junior club" would be "The Jolly Junior-club." I was sorry when I heard of Hazel being ill, but as I read by her letter last night, I see she is better. I was very glad to hear it. I have just got through making some fudge, so I will send you the recipe and hope some of the Juniors will try it. I will close. Anxiously awaiting to see my letter in print.
MARY RILEY.

A VERY INTERESTING STORY
My Dear Miss Burton:
This is my second letter to you. As you said we should select our own topic for this week, I will write about "A Brave Dog."
There lived in the country a fam-when we got to swinging quite high a son by the name of Everett who was seven years old. They also had a daughter fifteen years of age by the name of Hilda. Everett had a Newfoundland dog which he was very fond of and whose name was Rover. Everett had gotten him for his fifth birthday. A river flowed at the edge of one of the fields and Everett and Hilda would go down to the river and play. One day Everett went down there with his dog Rover and he had a pail and shovel with him. After he had filled the pail with sand, he went to the water's edge and poured the sand into the water. His shovel dropped and he stooped to get it, but fell into the water after his little master and Hilda came down just in time to see Rover plunge in after him. He came up after awhile with Everett in his mouth. Hilda then saw that her little brother was unconscious and she carried him into the house. They were very much pleased with Rover for saving Everett's life and they bought him a new collar with his name engraved upon it. Well, I will close, hoping to see my letter in print. I remain,

ANOTHER MEMBER FOR THE BLUES
My Dear Miss Burton:
I am very much interested in the Junior page and would like to be a member of the "Blue" side. As I cannot go to school I help mamma very much. I go to Sunday school and never miss a Sunday if I can help it. I am eleven years old. I hope the Junior page Blues will take me in and if I see my letter in print on the Junior page I will be pleased to write again. Your friend,

PEARL WANTS SUMMER TO COME
My Dear Miss Burton:
I thought I would write another short letter. I like to go to school and I got promoted to the 2A class. My teacher's name is Miss Eva Hatch and she is a very good teacher. But still I wish for the summer to come so I can go out in the country to spend my vacation. I just enjoy to go into the orchard, and see all the red apples and eat some of them. And I love to look at all the nice cattle. Well I will close my letter this time, hoping to see it in print. I am Your friend,
PEARL NOEM.

A STORY ABOUT A PICNIC
My Dear Miss Burton:
As I see so many little girls joining the club, I thought I might join. I am in the fifth grade. I want to join the Blues of which Hazel Wooden is the captain. As you told us to select our own topic this week, I will select "The Picnic."
One day, Gladys, Mary, Alice and Lola were planning to have a picnic. They all agreed to go to the grove.
They ran to the house to ask their mothers. Their mothers asked them where they would go and they said: "We will go to the grove." They said they would go the following day. They were all ready in the morning, and each had brought a lunch.
Alice had a dog which they took along with them and they were soon at the grove. There were swings, trees and many other things at the grove. After awhile Gladys said: "Shall we climb the trees?" They all said "yes." So they climbed up the trees. After awhile Alice fell from the top of the tree and called for help. They climbed down the trees and ran toward her. Lola said: "Oh, Alice, what is the matter?" but she could not speak to them. After awhile she sat up and said:
"My arm, how it hurts me." Then they called to a man driving past to take her in his wagon to her home. Alice's arm became well in a few weeks. They never climbed trees again after this. Well, I will not write any more now as I will take up too much room on the Junior page. Your little friend,

Hustle Reds this week and see if you can't get ahead of them, and Blues, you hustle and see if you can't keep ahead of them. B. B.

Dear Miss Burton:
I don't think I could write an original story very well, but I would like to write something for this week. I am anxious for Saturday evening to come for I want to read the story that you said you were going to write about a big storm that you were in. And another thing for Saturday is I am invited to a party. I was promoted to the 4B grade. I like my new teacher very much. Her name is Miss Viets. I think it is a lot of fun to wade in this deep snow. It is nearly night and I am afraid if I write any more I won't have time to get my letter over to the Tribune office in time.
Your friend,
BERTRICE GOODFELLOW.

JUNIOR RECIPES
Fudge
Cook three cups of sugar, one cup milk, and one tablespoon of butter. When the sugar is melted add 4 or 5 tablespoons of cocoa. Stir and boil 15 minutes. Take from fire, add one teaspoon vanilla, stir till creamy pour on buttered plates and cut in squares.
MARY RILEY.

SOME THINGS OF INTEREST
Of course all of my Juniors know who Abraham Lincoln was and I suppose you have heard many funny stories and nice things about him. I read a little thing about him the other day which I thought was pretty good. Mr. John H. Littlefield, who was a personal friend of his, writing about him, says that I didn't like to be waited on very much and that he would walk clear home for a law paper rather than ask his clerk to go for it. And once when he was president he was discovered in the basement of the White house, and when some one asked him what he was doing he answered: "Well, I'm browsing around for something to eat." Just think, instead of calling any of the servants, he was just "browsing around" to find something himself.

One of the daintiest and most expensive of Chinese dishes are the Chinese edible "bird's nests" and it takes fifty of them to make a pound. They resemble bird's nests and are mixed with soups. Just think what an expensive dish this must be. The nest is built by a swallow.

JUNIOR STORY

ELSIE'S PARTY
Elsie wanted a party, but mother was not very strong and did not feel able to undertake one. The little girl thought it over for several days. For others of her playmates were having parties, and finally she thought of a plan that would be fun and also something new.
"O mother," she cried, running in from school one day, "why can't I have a coasting party? That would be lots of fun."
"A coasting party," answered mother, smiling, "it may be; but what do you mean by a 'coasting party'?"
"Why, I mean have the girls come here Saturday afternoon and coast on our hill, and then come in and have apples, or something like that to eat. That wouldn't be much work for you, would it, mother dear?" Elsie asked anxiously.
"No, dear," mother replied, "that would not be any work for me at all, and you may ask them tomorrow."

So the next day nine girls of Elsie's age were invited to her coasting party, and all gladly accepted the invitation. For Elsie Bert was a favorite among her friends, and Bell's Hill was famous for its fine coasting.
On Saturday afternoon all the girls were there promptly at 2 o'clock, and trooped out to the hill back of the barn, where father met them with a surprise. He had nailed a wide board on bob, the old wooden coaster, and seating himself he said, "Now, girls, five of you get on behind me, and five in front, and we will take a fine ride."
Some of them were afraid to go, but the others hopped on, and when they said, "Ready," father gave the sled a shove, and away they went down the hill and across the meadow nearly to the brook. Oh, what fun it was! When they came back to the hilltop all the girls wanted to go on the next trip. When fingers and toes began to tingle, Elsie said, "Let us all go into the house now." So in they went, stamping off the snow.

Mother came into the room and said, "When you all are soasty warm, tell me, will you?" And they all answered "Yes, indeed." They were soon warm, and Elsie announced the fact to her mother, who replied, "Then come into the dining room and seat yourselves at the table." There they were treated to rich creamy milk, soft gingerbread and apples, after which mother slipped off the tablecloth and showed them how to play "Up Jenkins," and as they put on their wraps to go home they declared they had had a fine time, and that it was the best party they had attended for a year.—Pearl B. Selbert in Minneapolis Children's Tribune.

(Last week, Juniors, I told you I would tell you of a bad storm I was in once, and I hope you will be interested in it. Some other time I will tell you more about this claim.)

A TRUE STORY OF A TERRIBLE STORM.
Once upon a time, not so very many years ago, I went to live upon a government "claim." You know a claim is a piece of land that, if you go in an unsettled part of the country and consent to live upon it and make a few improvements, like digging a well, and building a little log house, and planting a garden, the United States government will let you have it for a very small sum at the end of fourteen months. It took quite a lot of courage to go away from my pleasant home in Minneapolis (for that was where I was living at the time) and up into the lonely northern woods of Minnesota, but lots of others had done the same way, so I thought I could too. I was in the exact center of the state of Minnesota and just 80 miles from the Canada line. Then I was 15 miles from a railroad and 6 miles from the nearest neighbor, and 2 miles off the main road down through a lonesome "trail" that years ago used to be an old Indian trail. Now up on this claim I had my two little boys with me and they were only four years old at that time; and after I had been on my claim for a while, my mother took another claim, the one next to me, and she built her shanty right across the boundary line so that we could call to each other from our cabins. Of course that was much better than being all alone, but I don't know which one of us was the most scared, sometimes I and sometimes she, I guess.

We didn't have anything special to be frightened at, but the thought that we were so completely alone and that if anything happened in any way, we should simply have to make the best of it, for we were prisoners, as any of us couldn't have walked six miles through the woods alone, and so we just had to wait till some one came with the mail, which they did nearly every week. Well, we had been there a little over a year, and were beginning to have pleasant thoughts of home, for we were to leave the claim the first week in December, in order to get home in good time for Christmas, and it was now the middle of September, so you see there were only 10 short weeks left out of so many long months and we were just counting the days.

It had been a beautiful, sunshiny day on the 11th and up to noon fairly warm, with just a touch of fall in the air; the trees were already beginning to turn pretty colors, for up that far north it gets cold earlier. At noon we all noticed a distinct change, a brisk, cold wind springing up from the west. By 3 o'clock the wind was blowing such a gale that the children could not keep on their feet outdoors. All this time the sun was shining beautifully. At five o'clock the sun had gone below the tall pine trees, and we thought the wind would abate as the sun went down, but instead of that it seemed to increase in violence, blowing harder and harder every ten minutes. At that time we were using my cabin for a dining room and sitting room, and the other one for a bed room for all of us, so we could be together. So after supper which we had early as we could go over to the sleeping cabin before dark, we got ready. We had to nearly carry the boys over, as by that time the gale was so bad that they would have been dashed against the trees and hurt. Then we went back for some food, in case we should need it, for by that time we knew that it was no ordinary wind storm. When we made our way back to the cabin it was all we could do to walk against the storm. The wind blew more and more furiously and at about nine o'clock we heard in the distance the ominous sound of crashing timber. Only those who have been in the big timber know how bad it is to have the trees falling around them, and although we were in the house, we didn't know any moment when one might not crash near to us and maybe fall right down on our little cabin. Then the storm took a peculiar turn—the wind would almost die down for about half a minute, then far in the distance as it were, we could hear it coming nearer and nearer until it would simply rage furiously right around us and CRASH would go a tree; it seemed right by us, with that awful crushing sound that I never can describe to you, for these trees were nearly 100 feet high and very big around. It was now such a pandemonium that we could only make each other hear by talking very loud, and we thought every minute that the roof would go. Oh, what a terrible time. At eleven o'clock we woke and dressed the children, for we didn't think anything else but that we would find ourselves out doors in the black dark woods, and the worst of it was, we NEVER on any pretext whatever put our noses outside the door after dark on account of the animals, of which there were many up there and of which I shall tell you another time.

And then to make things worse we heard many strange noises in the woods, for the animals were scared to death as well as we were and they were roaming around trying to find a safe place. At one o'clock in the morning in the midst of the raging storm which even then seemed to still increase in fury, we felt a peculiar vibration of the cabin, and my mother and I who were both standing in the middle of the floor thought sure our time had come and we each grabbed a sleeping boy, what to do with it I don't know, but we were nearly beside ourselves. But the roof didn't go and things were no worse than they had been, so we laid them down again. But the one corner of the cabin was twisted out of shape and that was the corner where the cupboard was, and everything in that cupboard came flying down, so that was what scared us so. We didn't care to undress of course, and all through that long, long night we sat there and waited for the worst to come, but at just five o'clock in the morning we could distinguish that the wind had less fury and the trees had ceased to crash so often.

Weren't we glad we had brought coffee and bread and butter and some bacon over to that other cabin? For we had a stove in each one and so we got ourselves some breakfast. Soon after daylight we opened the door and, oh, Juniors, I never could bring to your mind the sight that met our eyes. Trees and brush and beams of wood, and everything that could blow was piled high. We could not step two feet from the door. So we both got our axes and hatchets and began work to chop our way out. And, Juniors, it took us till ten o'clock to get a path through to my cabin. It was something fearful, and you see a terrible wind storm had raged in all its intensity for fourteen long hours. The next day was Sunday and just at noon we heard a shout, and here came a very good friend of ours from the postoffice 6 miles away, a Mr. Brandon, who was so loyal and faithful to us all the time we were in that lonely place. He said he was so worried about the two women alone with the little boys so far from help, that he started out at daylight to come and see if we were still alive and it had taken him nearly 5 hours to come six miles, when he generally walked it in about two. When we investigated the damage over at the cabin where we stayed all night, we held our breath, for an immense pine tree right near the corner of the cabin had uprooted and simply heaved over onto that corner where the cupboard was, but it was so near that it hadn't much purchase. That was when we felt that peculiar vibration. We had to get two or three strong men to come for many miles to remove it, and they said that if it had been back five or six feet, that we would have all been crushed underneath it. So we think to this day that we were pretty lucky on that stormy night. In that two mile trail out to the main road there were 1,500 trees down, ACROSS THE TRAIL, and on the road to Black Duck, the nearest town, there were thousands and thousands of immense trees blown down, and it was many weeks before a team and wagon could come out over the road.

SLEEPY TIME
Good-night, little baby!
Good-night, little baby,
I've counted your toes,
I've kissed all your fingers,
And rumpled your nose.
Good-night, little baby,
The day's gone away;
The big, tired darkness
Doesn't know how to play.
Good-night, little baby,
My arms are the bed,
My heart is the pillow,
My love is the spread.

A ROMAN PUBLIC BATH IN NEW YORK CITY

Something new in American public baths was opened in New York on January 20. Some years before it had occurred to the board of health that floating swimming baths anchored in the rivers at the mouths of sewers might be open to sanitary objections. There was no place to put them and so the health authorities tried to withdraw them from service. But the swimmers rose in revolt at this abridgment of their rights, and the authorities had to let them keep on bathing in sewage for the sake of peace. The health officials then resorted to a flank movement. They began building all-the-year-round baths on shore, providing with clean water, with the intention of gradually superseding the sewage baths. The one opened this week was the most ambitious yet provided by any American city for the free use of its citizens. The architects, Arnold W. Prunner and William M. Aiken, undertook to combine every practical convenience with a monumental dignity recalling in a small way the baths of Imperial Rome. For cleanliness there are two shower bath departments, one for men and the other for women. Each bath has the use of a double compartment, one for a dressing room, the other for the shower, which descends in an oblique stream. The compartments are walled with the finest polished marble. The shower baths, 75 for each sex, are open all the time, and the swimming pool in the center, 70 by 24 feet, is connected at certain hours with the men's and at certain hours with the women's department. After they have become thoroughly clean in the showers the bathers may swim in water warmed in winter and constantly renewed.

GIANT POLICEMAN GUARDS PRESIDENT

The president's own policeman. The man "on the job" at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Police-man W. H. Curtis of the District of Columbia force is special guardian of the executive mansion and President Roosevelt's "inside" bodyguard. No man in Washington has a larger acquaintance with public officials than this sturdy minion of the law. For the last six years he has stood at his post in front of the White House, and senators and ambassadors and cabinet officers give him the glad smile, while occasionally mere members of congress are permitted to bow to him. For Policeman Curtis has one of those kindly dispositions which endears him at first sight.
Also, let it be known, he is a man after the president's own heart. He has a Rooseveltian family of six "kids," and when the president heard this he was "delighted."

Generally speaking, the man who insists upon painting the town would be much more respectably and profitably engaged if he would limit his activities to his own house.

It is as easy to turn a man's head as it is to pick his pockets, and there are those who can turn both tricks at the same time.

As a rule, when you please yourself you don't.

Being truthful is comforting, but still it has its drawbacks.
